PREFACE

Written in context to all who survive within their own economic society. All may suffer different financial outcomes but the geopolitical world annexed says different.

The unification is very close, so close that being unaware of it is not productive as a workforce to attain and carry going forward your transition.

Whether your transition into becoming a new economic workforce, startup or entering the realm of c-suite enterprise. Fact of the matter we all swim amongst the tide, the technique is how good you are in keeping afloat when tidal waves becomes huge and how resilient you are to prepare when in calm waters.

Philosophical concepts which delineate the purposeful workforce and their own ideological concepts of their worldview of participatory innovation.

Counting sheep in the daylight is written to keep an agenda flowing in the minds of those caught in an ugly reality untouched from the real reality, kept hidden long ago by kings of misdirection.

Adopted by parenting rights and flow within the veins like the world is not yours and never for the taking, so remain in your lane!

Do not place your future hands to the future few who are part of the ugly old, stuck in an old reality!

Stop dreaming under the guise of kings of masses and create your agenda same and separate without being a follower.

The future awaits you reader!

Empathetically: “it is not intended to be the omnipotent of knowledge but a digression of deduced reasoning to the recipient reader.”

INTRODUCTION

The partnership between state and statehood is better understood when both parties to any social constitution agrees that both identities were the cause of any economy going downward.

There exists no blame to the mantra of both identities serving a greater cause other than their personal agendas.

Mixed with diluted faith amongst each other goodwill approach, to better a system workforce and employability matched with nothing more than resentment that they both shall not fall to any trickery both possess under their sleeves.

When these situations arises the workforce are caught between these two power plays and never benefits from the tyranny both possess.

The history of economic downturns and tyranny of the people shows up when a class of people becomes forgotten by not participating in sustainable development because it remains easy to ask for international guaranteed assistance.

Sustainable losses occurs and the rumors of beginning anew justifies that their never is a silver lining when it comes to the two most important identities within a stable independent republic.

This eBook highlights just a few conversations and deductions of how complacent these two identities can become thus ruining a brighter future for all who are in search of financial freedom.

These 'kings of masses' what purpose do they serve? And to their masses what agenda follows suit under when the sacrifices laid out does not justify the end result?

To learn more read further the topic themes and these questions would give you a head start in determining your place in your independent republic.

ECONOMIC SYSTEM IN SLEEP MODE

Economic chiseling downward in social landmines equates to placing all your invested time and money in assets that can be devalued with every minor scale shocks evading the economic space.

A space not quantified as having the equality of everyone and those ones who never sleep when everyone does.

A misconception that the human body needs all type of allocated time to rests with an economic body running 24hours per day, per week or per month into a risky future.

Allude to those endless possibilities of fail mode and structures, too many economical viable products are not worth the effort to revive.

A resuscitation worth more dead than alive, as the price to awaken a pure commodity from dream state can belly up the most vital enterprise in progression.

A dose of anti depressant stimulant to pump blood into the dying heart of the economy, to restart the mobility entrusted to them by member statehood.

A dose of reacted agents to kick start the membrane into the think tank mode; to begin anew a positive foundation for the social class in jeopardy.

The skills bank filled with missed opportunities and misjudged recipients who practice monk mode rituals away from their reality of pain.

Pain caused by leaders, elders, economists and mathematician predictors all wrong in determining the best alternate to a dying economy is to keep it asleep.

And place your hands out and beg to the international community and they will muster all attempts to resuscitate; will be met by resistance dragging efforts of communal growth longer.

These tactics of evasion, illusion and singularity movement benefits no one but history speaks a lot of these actions continually into every possible future.

A future of displacement and hopelessness to the nation breeders and nationalists pride eaters of yesterday past.

Is there a solution to these metrics of failing economies all asleep purposely, deliberately and all other similar words in description?

Cultural indecency and anthropologist setbacks fading into the memory of decedent populists, who neither want to remember the old days of tyranny and place all faith in the tomorrow children of yoke, remains the only beat and rhythm any child of the forgotten can relate to.

Systems destroyed, economic viability unstable, people are rioting, civility is extinct and the independent republic state is no more.

A time where prosperity and merit should be at its highest, some decide to waste it on being hypnotized forever in a place long ago.

Evading the questions placed on them about the future never to happen because leaders of yesterday are stuck in the dream state of the good ole days.

No economic future by resourceful people and culture to regain the trust of the international community to be a fruitful supplier of commodities all over.

Enriched in the vitality to make other customers feel the importance of spending and placing a value on why they spend for such a reward pleasurable to them alone.

This feeling can only be shown when an economy decides to be productive and to share its production around the world.

Dredged in sleep would only paralyze the future stakeholders watching on, asking questions and rebelling for reasons not known to them but an reaction to their mental state affected by an economic state.

Entrusting the future to other individuals is the most difficult thing to do.

As watchdogs and lobbyists to republicanism all statehood characters vow to be the guardian to true democracy.

But sleep can be contagious and glorified no different to the antagonists fighting for a cause, can also be in sleep mode enjoying rebellionism as an action only you are rewarded.

But awakening from this dream state would further show that the rebellion acts has no hero in the end but further distraction and debarment to a stable economy.

To the kings of the masses evolve into something new and resourceful. Keeping the masses abated with old fusion of nuclear separation, disastrous to everyone near, is destructive to future causes.

Elemental in design and purpose sleeping in times when most productivity is 'needle overkills' structuralism and remakes evolution to the worst state possible.

FOREIGN RESERVE LISTING

There exist a close relationship amongst economic employability, economic productivity and the dollar vulnerability within any economic continual survivability.

As the strength in a dollar note all pegged on its essentiality and viability ensures that all economic productivity must meet the needs to be in equal value always without deterrence.

Pegged on the line of invisibility and measured constantly creates a further burden on all unequal states to remain a viable commodity product in the market place.

Without fail or hindrance to support mechanism in international trade wars and turf splitting; the minded recipient would surely feel the pain of economic stagnation and duress coming from all corners of bankers and institutions of enlistment.

The dream state economy and their following masses follow one king. A king destined to keep all productivity checked, as the social institution finds some sense of morality in doing practices to keep their sanity alive; first regardless of the whole nation state institution.

The price are high so is the price to enroll in the recipient listing to attain funding to capitalize in better survival rate surveys.

Added to the struggling years of idealist theory and govern articulations on how they want their institution to be.

A nation state not worthy to be instilled and a promise that a government today can be unique and aspiring to be the next alternative to a capitalist regime of craftsmen and traders.

The economic value becomes eroded in time and every second delayed, destroys the fabric of social life.

As the social state becomes an uninhabited, inverted commodity no one wants, regardless of natural resources or other assets in value; the counting on 3 relationship value chosen one over the other decreases the foreign reserve value of the dollar.

You see readers, the dollar value as an end product in any growing economic state fuels the fire of the machinery by reinvesting in the states oppositions to innovate away from forcing debt and internal national debt.

Every dollar price downward due to lack of productivity in any of the 3 relationship values, loosen the elasticity of the market, allowing too much flexibility to occur in state thus increasing the debt value in foreign currency.

For it is the foreign currency which is above the dream state currency rate and is used as an initiator to rebuild the productivity level until maximization occurs to repay the initial debt.

Nothing comes free in the market economy. A price has to be had and conducted in lieu of keeping sustainability alive.

Whatever listing the currency is circling on determines the level of the 3 substantial values of their relationship together.

Remember economic employability equates to economic productivity, which further adds to dollar vulnerability amongst the market conditions.

Justifying that the world channel financial aid to the governments who fail to keep hungry bellies full or to encourage financial institutions to invest valuable instruments towards certain priceless commodity assets individually, at least to support vulnerable communities is a way to accept failure on their part, is a mistake to nullify.

Good governance structure and ideology is not all of great importance to a people who seek support from governments' aid and elected officials.

Cross analyze by years of poverty and novel mortality rate design to keep a population knowledgeable about state affairs and their choices going forward.

There exists no exact mathematical calculation to assist monolithic states in development amongst a history of welfarism so attached that it decays the belly of communities unaware of its level of decay.

Nothing is valuable in the core of financial asset governed by the state officials, loaned to the populous few and further dissected to rent out by the populous many, through a lifetime of repayments.

Scenarios and scenarios of all type of system schemes, all in a void of productivity just to have a sector of society to provide productivity in abundance to support those who cannot.

The reserve listing of foreign instruments, if not understood on how it can support dream state economies can erupt other social chaos in the longer term.

All 3 relationship value has worth; all must be overvalued and maxed out in support of each other. It is reciprocal and benefits the time it is valued upon and the future of a difficult economic turnaround ahead.

POLITICAL
SOCIAL SECURITY
ECONOMIES

City officials, primary advocate for mayor, political affiliates and government institutions satisfaction rating all deliberate to prove successful leadership in governance are so self stuck to deterministic values of any social security economy.

The vitality of sufficient resources in aid to keep citizens satisfied and to improve approval ratings for electoral candidates rescind as memory casualty are disturbed every time the pockets empty in the coffers of the electorate.

Political directorate vs. their constituent electorate; a them against us mentality draws closer every time both are in need of each other assistance.

Two bipolar magnetic poles never for each other but on terms of who can benefit more.

Social security of financial, micro economy, household's survival rate and the ecosystem of reserve resources all makes up a community of dissents.

Both comes serving the same master but valued differently when flipped by different classes.

The city limits gravitating on a constitution proclaim to value equality to all serving workforce through their deliberations of labor.

Labor equating to different value when placed in a employment not meaningful enough to warrant the economic dollar value in exchange to sweat.

The equity dividing to sweat and system importance can be heard during speeches of liberty and the free will bestowed to all to be who they want to be without the use of anarchic goals to attain it.

But readers can a system of competition breed anarchism by the few who believes competitiveness benefits those who already has the resources in abundance? Or

Can the dream be so big that it warrants the selfish trait of a believer to abandon all beliefs to attain a better social and security life like no other?

There lies the divide between those two directorates all directions leading to the possibility of the free will and actionable attempts delivery both favorable and dissatisfaction to the brave and the boldface.

The city limits; so aggrandizing, so impotent, so glorious for all seek its glorified sheen.

While purposeful assertion taught in educational district about the favors of life and the importance to know that a system cannot wield all resourceful workforces to their path of wealth.

For they themselves stuck in derision enables an economy within an economic structure to build resourceful tools for the people, by the people, in hope that if the system crashes an internal economy was also betting against the predictive failures of its workforce.

A betting system predicting that the productive workforce today would be obsolete in the hopeful future, thus delineating growth due to their inhibitions in obtaining invisible monies owed to them which was never quantified in dollar value.

The dollar placed to replace value of all neutral commodities is now worth something if in production and sold to make a rewarding profit.

Thus the singular object caught between the politics of the money and the disguise which the community gives off to keep poor people poor is the many discussion, dissidents feel and speak off when the polls draw near to vote.

For nothing is assured or direct in nature as new economies grow and fall into the void, taking its entire workforce victim with it.

Causing the state economy to rely on shutdowns as a means to allow investors to prime those weeds out of the meadow and save the value of the trees.

While their appointed kings of masses defer to alert authorities and the public about opinionists and seasoned social experts, who crowd source opinions to keep workers attention for all the possible causes and no solution but to riot.

Avoiding the conditions of employability and sustainability can be the only order to keep certain within the corridors of equity.

While times wasted on deliberate actions and system hate; a ruin community of worthless commonalities now becomes a burden to those who are patriotic enough to try to escape total nationwide economic downturn.

The competitive rule of both political and social directorate overruns the fabric of nation identity and building.

For all prospects seems to be on their own virtue to economic wealth at the expense of others.

So many political and social security economies are asleep and dreaming about a system change which would never surface far beyond the satisfaction of the beauty sleep.

KINGS OF MASSES

The people are being led astray by constant leaders who have their own agenda to speak of dictatorship constitutions and to create their own constitution to meet their agenda.

The debacle is real and the principle behind non sustainable people lies in the outreach programmes of their kings, their majesty and lords of frivolity.

Captivated by the opposite trends of outlook deliberations and the criticized format they make constantly on the mediums, speaking of dictatorial governments and their personal policies to benefit the few, are happenance which restricts productivity.

Poverty of the mind and the illiteracy rate becomes high when counted, for the masses indulge themselves in these high frequency wavelengths, eliminating fact from fiction dialect, perplexed to the core of insanity.

Public opinion swayed in with a lot of false media and controversial acts of the people by the people, demanding that sectorialists sharing of the nation wealth be redistributed to the history of non innovators and creators of tomorrow.

Who lack the will and the mental fortitude to use state wealth to rebuild a better future instead of creating fantasies set out due to their social inequality.

The productivity of a nation state looked upon in the mirror to find any flaws in design and to estimate the calculation of trajectories, triangulated to assure public investors and opinion makers that something can come out good in the end.

So who appoints these kings? And what processes are appointed or delegated to elect these figureheads?

If the public perception is highly based on state persecution on the vulnerable in society and the exacerbated conversations daily by these elected kings, designed to create a perception that a nation state creates a damaging society in fear of separation of powers, by the people to the people, then it remains impossible to digress out of the minds of the masses who too are the economic workforce of tomorrow.

Never forget that these two purposeful positions create the future all wants; neither is the two inseparable from each other: ‘known as the voter and the economic worker.’

Regardless of what types of governance structure there exist, some type of voter structure in it is for the nation leaders to be elected or an elected spokesperson for the people without the honor bestowed from state leaders.

Society today still reels from a history of violence and controversial corruption by the eaters of economic wealth.

To a point that no one trusts each other regardless of how fruitful and fertile a society has become.

The kings of masses and their followers the chariots they ride on is the significant look it is best described on.

A body of people never trusting their own perceptions and thought to be something new and to develop creativity and innovation without the help of self appointed martyrs.

The masses must separate the kings from themselves, if not they would not be the benefactor of true justice, which they all fight for.

History have bestowed all types of those meritorious causes, enough for any one today to look upon and understand that hope is an emotional attribute no one can implant in your mental core belief. For it is one which runs like a river, overflowing in depth hence the recipient look hard enough to surface it.

A dream to be sustainable is not all bandwagonists dream of, captured by captivating speeches by leaders to develop a new productive chain of workers in order to obtain wealth beyond the green mile.

This is written in the context of living and trying to survive in a territory breeding laziness and social decadence of chaos.

A citizens workforce try endlessly hard to figure out what causes depressionary markets and economic downturn in their sectors no matter how many man hours imputed and punch in their work card.

The sweet days toiled for many years amount to nothing much but a redundant worker not being told enough by elected kings of masses that their industry has evolved 10X over the years.

The workforce so doubtful and blind becomes the target of poverty and under productivity that not once took time to observe the market trends and the flow of trade.

These elected kings of masses all glorified masters and commanders of workforce destiny are also destroyers and abortionists to futures reality.

There exists no replacement for a failing economy if the people are also failures themselves.

The guilty pleasures which comes from dreaming lures the victim into a deep sleep so unconscious that they become unaware, that this is far from reality and anything beautiful which develops out of that sleep realm, is placed purposeful to keep the dream continuous regardless of the mental and financial effects of the victim.

Wake up dream state masses! This is not a dream!

DIVERSIFYING IDENTITIES

Communities amassing themselves with multiple identities all trying to fit in a complex puzzle which state identities afforded them no luxury for.

A nexus of treatise and trustees of financial powers framed in a dialogue to rule complex identities.

Having failed with multiple identities of economic growth comes a new fiscal identity called 'going green'.

Green the color of the new identity sustainable in some form of character; easily identified by its wondrous but very complexed demeanor to seek human survivability going into the new void.

The common product must now identify to the coming age of sustainability and its fight for the new diversifying wave.

Too much changing of identities; soon the mental capacity to devalue the real workforce becomes lost as playing catch up to the fast moving wave of innovation leave most workforce behind.

The sensory glands of the affected must adapt swiftly and adjust to all forms of economic wave, in order to survive the 21st century complexities.

To make sustainable people out of a chaotic genome of chaos babies, anarchic children of division and oblivion.

The children against any form of systematic changes and to stand firm against any other identity shift but their own.

Standing firm to their own true identity to be the one and only with no alteration but an identity for freedom.

The system machine and its technical staffs ensures that the system do not crash, thus preventing any ideological behaviors of the reasons of the crashes are conspiratorial in design, to erupt the vulnerable class and to diminish freedom to keep their identity.

A state system has always known about diffusion forces multiplied by the hesitant bodies to be part of any system identity.

Freedom to roam untouched and unnoticed; a shadow in the system to mask an identity unfamiliar to the system norms.

There is no distinction between freedom of choices and freedom fighting for choices but the clear admiration of those fighting for the casualty and chaos it emanates.

But such causes are mirrored by other citizen workforce choices that decide to be part of the system rulement and facilitate the bargaining power of sweat for dollar; afforded the protection by a state constitution.

The protectionists rights that all individual identity are protected from unequal treatment and have the free will to act on any impulses they sees fit once the system benefits from their actions.

A perplexed period within any economic time when the tides shift and the officials ask upon the citizen workforce to be more involve in economic growth for the community as well as the state.

The economics behind self sustaining projects and depleting market conditions forced the state to pass judgment onto its citizens, by wave upon wave of spending sanctions and their buying power becomes limited, for the union between state and workforce identities were always destructive in nature.

In the beginning, confusion and conspiracies of independent adoption of a financial instrument, worthy for trade and pitching to the globalized community along with a disheartened people who look to the past for future directions always spoiled the generations of tomorrow.

Citizen's soldiers armed with hate and conflictment, self destroying their identity early on and inflicting this disease towards the generation poor and other societal members.

Turmoil and infliction disseminate onto their capability to grow out of idle hands, used to destroy their own culture and history of lineages.

Persecution amongst different social class, ethnicities, blood line and lineage perpetuate on which survival class should lead.

Instead of focusing on the future outlook of the betterment of all identities as one, it becomes too hard and unsettling as a betrayal of the old republic moral code.

These principles not set in stone but castrated amongst group of civility hoping that a savior can create the perfect economic society which benefits the few and the many shall be the consumer to propaganda and lost hope.

Striving to become valuable to the eyes of producers of commodities and trading experts of financial instruments.

While conversations are merit on the premise of diversification and the pronounciation deflect onto to the populace who have proportion down to a core function, the only easy accessible motion is to commit to its transference.

While others continue to debate on its importance or hindrance, look for perfection in everything where there is none.

Wasting time on blueprint strategies and best practice policies, delaying the sturdy growth of human capital who are the builders of these economies.

THE DOLLAR VALUE RULE

No one reality is similar to their understanding of the value of the dollar in their pockets or banks used or invested in debted outcomes.

I believe these differences are what make the dollar value strong amongst every consumer of goods and services.

Its worth represents something different in qualitative calculative risks to someone else own deductive reasoning of how beneficial their exchange of these value mean to them.

Their attachment to their sentimental costs placed on the notes and the instrument determines their survivability amongst the economic state.

No other succinct and strong rule other than what is paramount for the retention of spenders to keep it afloat.

Calculated in returns on future value indebted on the commodity needed in expense of payment continued to the predictions of market that everything is never assured and grave risks are certain to be inevitable.

These uncertainties worries the workforces who continually strive for total equality within the distribution of the value of work exchange in labor face both sides of a dilemma they cannot control.

See it as faith handed down by generations of the misfortunes and the mishaps of not understanding financial literacy amongst those who suppose to have it, is the reality of money.

Trapped in a coma all eyes focused on media moguls, antics and theatrical productions play, dissemination advice which totally misconstrues the reality they face in controlling bad habit spending just to fill a void of not being the master of their destiny.

A production line of devalued producers of goods on the payload system each fighting for a value not worth spending.

As the populist holders of resources forced public opinion sections on lobbyist, unions and labor foundations on their approach to equality and equity in the workforce.

For their focus agenda lies in creating a blur picture that state and statehood are not the same forces which should never align in purpose of economic growth but always be two antagonist bullies every time negotiations of suspended rights for monies allocation is not met.

The value of increased in monies allocated to non resourceful workforce pegged on the sustainability of the economy, waged against the strength of a nation dollar are all aggregates to a diffusion within the societal ranks.

Productivity measured as a curse to the free will of the backbone to growth. Short change in the financial lessons of yesterday, that all is not well if the voices of the labor force is not represented of the issues made up or concocted, to relay a message of dissatisfaction of their worth as labor generalists.

The inner populous fight is an overgrowing one when the conspiracy lies within the minds that are confused and too much engaged in behaviors, opposite of the international trading community and the flow of expenditure goals and services.

It is never to be known that the test towards good governance is the rationale citizens workforce have against a state elected populace diplomacy actions, whenever it does not suit them or they are too kept back from the fast moving international community, they feel left out of major decisions they believe they have an intention to voice.

The reactions stateless leaders and voice of anarchist have in common are they both do not seek the interest to learn about the growth curve of a developing people and how to maximize their potential to be better resilient keepers of the local market.

Too much time are being spent on counting the dollar acquired and diminishing the value it has for everyone by simply adding improved tasks to the dollar, thus increasing the amount in quantity, thus equating to the value of the current market conditions.

Remember the equation is to stay equal or above the value margin and never below. The value below market conditions decreases the best choice to have a better standard of living in economies which are developing.

Knowing the worth of your contribution labor wise, increases your potential of earning more capital throughout the allocated times assessed.

When capital increases, so does the worth in value the service provider has to offer. Thus, allowing greater opportunities to distribute value into an existing body to add value in work production.

A value chain exists where commodities of value assisting each other to continue being of value within the market current trends.

A trend pattern exists and the flow of the dollar is evaluated as holding more value in worth than just being occupied without having potential to mean something to someone else.

Value is worth in the dollar value rule in the conditions we do not control.

Tell that to the 'kings of masses.'

TOPIC END

The man, the state machine and the many machinery it operates. The workforce only opportunity to survive is to be part of the mechanism of the machine and see how far it takes them.

Quite noticeably it requires a restructuring and a displacement of old work rules and habits not conducive for the changes in the economy.

The situations become bleak and so the workforce is now in denial, searching for another identity that holds the power to assist in their revengeful plot.

The power of this tri-party system of the worker being in the center of all disparities remains the biggest issues today.

The literature points to just a few topics which embodies the understanding of the faith for the future working class and the relations they have with both powerful identities.
