PREFACE

A look into the belly of the social beast in developing states you can feel a sense of disorganization and disbelief that societies and communities adopt this way of living. A living of exacerbated expenditure, where today can take care of itself while hopefully doubtful of tomorrow feat.

The children of tomorrow are dismissed when their character is not in order to remain a destitute of welfarism and handouts.

A character where they lurk for more than just voices and echoes from state leaders and all other leaders who have failed to enrich the vulnerable into a greater sustainable future.

Drowned in inaction and words comes the vengeful youths who now seek alternatives to pass their rage on other potential victims of society.

For victimology within state societies is generational with no end at its sight, as the continuation of social youth destruction stems from the legacy approach of the uneconomical minds of leaders to use other xenophobia tactics to create a warpath society of distrust towards their identity and others.

To fuel a blood war, economically drained enough to see who are the aggressors and the intended victim; without acknowledging these secular tactics eats away the heart of a functional society.

With the youth in the very centre, the youths must now find a way through sustainable development programmes, where they can manifest their creation into projects worth in value to become a successful business enterprise.

An investment in youths through financial education can improve sustainable employment for other youths of tomorrow.

For this is written for the children in mind and for proper action to arise in full to protect the creativity of the economic future of developing nations by just having an ear and the pocket to fund.

INTRODUCTION

The current international topic in surfacing the reintegration of the human diaspora intellect to discover new and abundant ways to protect mankind survival rate; ever increasingly depends on both the public and private solutions to disperse a knowledge wave of introducing sustainable development in every conversation that occurs.

As the society brace for the new innovative wave of economic sustainability; many developing states still find difficulty in achieving its potential due to the social breakdown of its population.

A divided population with habitual behaviors which benefited many also incur a level of depression to those small fraction who believe in divestment into new markets. Markets including labor, technology, legislation and the youth.

This eBook elaborates the importance of youth development in entrepreneurship programmes. Where their level of creativity can be expounded into the creation of successful prototypes meaningful to be a product of economic growth.

The topics outlined different conceptualized approaches in addressing youth entrepreneurship and the many loopholes which affect its initiation.

Loopholes including the: political reigns, social xenophobia, social displacement, youth violence, youth aggression, economically depressed societies and a mixed family parenting style.

An ever so present danger is the inequality of futuristic mentors which at most times lack in developing states and perplexed the situation that abundant welfarism can be used to bribe the youth into becoming non-intellectual parties to the continued de-evolution of its people.

SECURITY

PLAN

Ideally to look upon the grave situations happening within a society's social outlook in developing states; poverty remains the gravest concern to a group of survivalists.

A group which tries to outlive the travesty of economic starvation within their workspace and their communities.

Separated by short term contractual agreements to incur financial liquidity to streamline its concerned citizens only fuels the present situation's appetite to rebel by causing mayhem to order.

The citizens are so enraged that their impulses never lessen but encroach on the only thought that matters. The mayhem to overcome systematic errors!

Borne out of an earlier economic model of voting competent agents who are ethical to see the business of the state flow within indemnity, is just a smoke screen deliberate in action to keep the social attributes in disarray.

A deliberate action ruining lives through generational carcasses without the fervent precious minds to dredge their fear towards the real agents of chaos.

While tribal thought and sentimental virtues bestowed on platforms to relinquish systematic inclusion during times of voting rights remain the only issues never really dealt with yesterday into today.

For the economic solution to prevent poverty is never ever present like the problem to include a social security net, filled with economic solutions in divesting in needs rather than wants.

So perplexed is this antagonist's history that only few grasp on the ideals to be different from their predecessors. Even if their ancestral lineages defer them to be impure actions.

Backstabbed by the people who loved societal indifference through its birth and the society who vetoed the intelligent agent from restoring morality within the structure of the system.

No financial plan in securing the future financial problems which always affect developing nations as a reserve strapped central government issue.

Social security plans annexed to the wisdom of good taxation, working for the truth of the working class.

An investment undoubtedly very dependent to survive on regardless of how the social economy is unrelenting.

The people starved from insights and the correct information believed that the hands of God lies in the democracy of its constitution to never leave a belly hungry and starved or to leave no child behind.

Thus cash strapped reserved-resources can only provide social equity programmes when the diligent business community seeks investment down the value chain.

As the true victims are the poverty stricken minds of the clueless classless. As the classrooms filled with many students of social inequity all comprehend differently during the one dialect session infiltrating daily.

So this method of misinformation towards the truth of the social economy which at most times is not vetted for its legitimacy are rather chosen to be the best alternative to keep society informed to remain calm.

Filling the void with lies and promises softens the pressure from the top and directs all burdens to the people.

No responsibility by the heads to ownership of decisions as the people remains subservient to political correctness and the jostling of uncertainty.

As God is within every constitutional thought written in context but no action is righteous to determine an outlook of divinity.

Hence for the results are within the distinct households, all clamoring in fears that there exists no hope in sight.

Forever lost in derision and its generational burden is carried as a cause rather than a concern what makes an excellent governance framework.

And who decides for others when manipulation of information gets lost before it reaches the communities.

A social security plan represents the ability of a society to have enough financial wealth to combat the mistakes of its leaders.

By absorbing all mistakes financially, only enrages a ruthless society protectionist ideal.

In protecting what should be theirs' and along its investments to grow via educational means and to correct the coercive reporting of information by the government sects.

Some are left behind and lost in the transgression of the global matrix. A matrix quickly turning into a diabolical instrument to keep those without financial instruments, to keep those who possess the wisdom rich in fortitude and fortunes.

YOUTH ENTREPRENEURSHIP PROGRAMME

The value of innovation within developing states is crucial to keep the local economy afloat with other larger economic states.

Its prevalence is shown in many studies that the creativity of its citizens to endure and to learn from past errors shall not be continued by the youths of tomorrow.

Too many times developing states focus on job retention rather than the introduction of new jobs continuing to meet the new gold standard of job changes globally.

The economic value of the student of tomorrow all cramped within their classes to absorb texts of history and sciences but never been awarded the opportunity to further see the extrinsic value of adding a financial quotation to text learning.

As the average graduate is neither prepared for the geo political social labor race or for the gold rush of creating new entrepreneurial business.

Entrepreneurship has no limits to its creator's age only in territories affected by book work determined to create the skilled workforce of the future only by mental awareness but the fascination to build is clearly out of the heart of its citizens.

For dependency on the state agency to provide a group of patriotic citizens to fill current vacancies with temporary shelf life to augment a deficiency in a state's resources to keep citizens busy enough to not go into other markets detrimental to a safe state zone.

As the youth fall victim continually to the aberration of those who believe they must be schooled brutally to follow the laws of the book realm, hoping for the best in the economy so they can be satisfied with a neutral labor negotiations agreement.

For the debtor of time occurred in interests over periods of uncertainty against the skills carried over that specific true amount to a zero production altitude in efficiency and innovation.

Although a productive society by its outlook, 'keeping labor busy' may not contribute to creativity in the local labor market.

Due to stymied out groups and unionized philosophy, that paper trail and the attitude to absorb a job requirement is more than enough to weather any economic storm.

So the people remain doubtful and wait for the next big business appetite to fuel its resources intentionally, to bring enough flowing investment reserves to prove that one can succeed.

The youth's uncertain future of innovation not taught in basic academic classes, from the ages of full absorption deters any chance of a developing state to encourage future diversified investment.

The courage to learn financial management and youth divestments in business at the stage of college creates a brighter future from the investment of youth in the arms race competition.

These current deterrence faced by these developing states to seek entrepreneurship through the avenues of adult graduate; who may not seek the adventure and thrill to leave their comfort zone to interrupt a space of nothingness and, to endure countless hours of miscalculation and failures to produce one outcome becomes a large enough task daunting to be ignore.

The populace's ideals stem deep into the traditional school of thought. As the employees are raised to remain employees throughout their life span is good enough success to take through retirement.

It remains an important subject to speak of when the dependence of developing states to be orthodox to the economic philosophy of others.

For the youths must be radicals to express innovation at earliest age so a purpose other than the expenditure exposed to only pass an exam can be redirected to a purpose of satisfaction to create sustainability in a state not reeling its fullest potential.

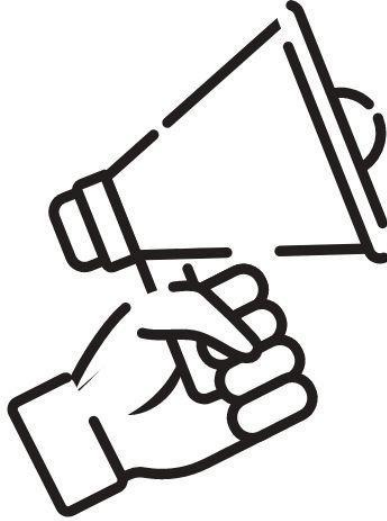

Because social economic classes prevent youths from spending time chasing tangible dreams and on common sense thought by the very same citizens who are also trapped in success issues.

Succession in social economies dwells afoot to the might of the youth seeking changes in their approach to sustainability.

Sustainability is the will to achieve and to continually produce a certain amount of success which carries to those externally and earnestly.

To build a frontier economy for the following youth to continue via merging innovation or to create new processes to alleviate economic starvation.

A youth entrepreneurship programme sets a developed state on a future economically vibrant and fertile without the dependency of the state welfare programme encouraged by many adult labor forces as their only means to survive economically.

POLITICAL MISCHIEF

A history of martyrdom and legends of misdirection all creating ideals of a better life cocoon into a great wall of separation between many distinct factions which can separate an identity purposefully and end with grave malice.

A history of popular voters created to cause dissatisfaction among the populace to a deliverance of forging all identities not suitable with a population voting for change.

The mischievous ideology is to create an identity lured into a systematic casualty of dependency and hierarchical hypocrisy known in growing states.

Power tactics designed to alert the citizens into a state of frenzy appetite, doubting leaders of all statutes and electing topics to suit a dangerous narrative of ensuring financial rewards are given to all loyalists.

Developing states fervent tropical statutes are questioned during stalemate action and voting legislation on demand which requires no future pioneerism amongst the youth who watches.

Always antagonistic, always a sense of disloyalty amongst citizens trapped in a delusion of bigotry and house slaughter.

The social economy never sleeps in peace as the society finds illusive ways to breach the community peace in order to keep a sense of social pride continually.

Regardless if they take from the poor in order to feed the mouths of other poor, while unintelligent arguments surface through propaganda, that the state officials live larger than the poor elite life's; hopeless to see that constructive power play works for the office clouts and not the people in handouts.

Case by case the cushion economy trickling down to the lower economic tides dwindles as the trust amongst the intellectual becomes a nightmare for present generations.

For the economies are stalled by the purposeful attempt to satisfy a populist of old. The new republic order of innovation runs short on labor to fill the many corporate dynamics of play books and investment.

Protesting a validation to reignite innovation in the hearts of the youth is possible only if the youth see value within themselves.

No short term loan to satisfy a short term goal but a strategic initiative to grow into a valuable product unimaginable by doubters.

While a world filled with commonwealth resources and a huge train line of deserving dissent of labor marching into territories for a place to say it's a temporary stay.

The economics are fully bright and fully funded when the pioneer thought surfaces when political goals oversteps social goals and their dependent policy to rid of something overarching the will of the people remains a mystery always.

Who defeats who! Who is the mystery conglomerate sleeping in the dark to fuel chaos amongst the social poor elite?

A daunting question when speeches about morality remain unsettled in the heart of the social labor force who are forced to be divided over simple principles not to be so exaggerated.

To take up most of one's adult life creating confusion and daunting anything can be done on a solo project.

A parenthood guide of legacy frameworks old enough to mislead the reader about today's feats.

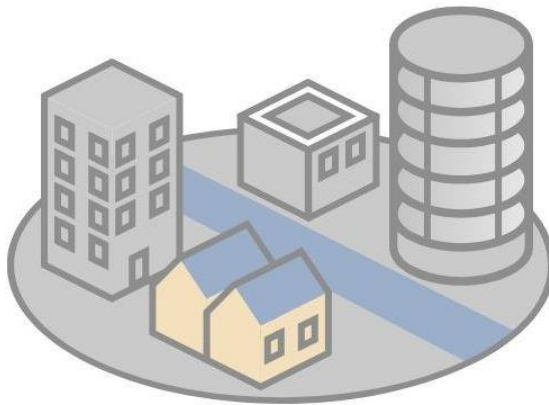

For only the new generations can solve most notable problems created by old generations of chaotic principles.

A chance given to create new frontier futures begins with youth development and entrepreneurship aligned with an opportunity to explore their fear in failure fortunes.

As the social apocalypse spills over the barriers of foundations, going downwards until it reaches its permanent stay on the economic backs of the poor in society.

Those vulnerable in society show a positive outlook if the right investments are trickled down instead of the rising debt removed from the state stables and descending into a pool of devolve into the pocket of the labor force spending power.

The balancing act remains the objectives of a state mandate to educate its youth to become valuable idealists and creators to bring balance in chaos times, without the fear of doing it alone, as the futures value of trade and trading is all in the how and not the why.

SYSTEMATIC URBAN MARGINIZATION

As an economical model designed within the communities of large pools of criminal activities stemming from high induction rate of youths remains a committed issue in many developing states.

As the fighting rights to survive with a broken home stemmed from identities carved and adapted as living proof of a system broken are excuses one can attribute are the causes of finding out systematic issues in these communities.

Communities converted by political will and promises that marginalization does not exist and equal rights to certain sectors are not prohibited to the sectorialists-many.

The human being converted by principles and worshiped ideology of social hatred are difficult to eliminate social shame in a social classless society of chaos.

A delusional grandeur hoped to be eradicated when chaos power privileges the few when concept funding determines which allocation brings more sustenance in futures commodities or which trading commodities can be exploited by the use of the unskilled.

A strapped cash community marginalized only on principles documented as the non learners to a social order of behaviors.

Stemmed from years of exploitation and hopefully not deliberate colonized era of identity stripping shall not be the blame one can attribute to the culture of youth delinquency.

The youths above all are breeders of the society political-social-economic game. They see and foresee quicker than the adult loyalist to either the truth of the chaos and the reasons the order cannot survive long enough to pass a generation.

As the cyclical umbilical cord runs deep within the fabric of a casualty community it can never be determined why the bitterness remains between state and certain statehood in regards to a call of decentralizing the community social independence to commute dissociation amongst citizenry.

The causal power play disfigures the probability for the communal youth to display any sense of patriotism within their homes and further to statesmanship.

The ideal set in much research is that possible forgotten societies feel neglected when post elections victories are set and the tables are filled with condiments of a victorious aim to fulfil a mandate not possible to achieve.

Given the economically starved central bank issuance of committed financial guarantees to fill the community with resources to diminish youth dependency on crime and to cultivate new republic order amongst societies lost in transition.

For marginalization in developing states minimizes the growth curve of a community or district. The valuation of raw labor talent annexed with their resourcefulness improves the chances of investors to target these areas due to its usefulness to achieve projections of growth.

This can be in effect with the elimination of systematic urban marginalization of communities described as hot spots created by a misunderstanding of the purposeful asset relocation of the elimination of poverty from the minds of its youths.

Setting a stage of introducing valuable assets in communities flagged or not by a history of criminal violence, would encourage the creative social class to be more resourceful in their creativity and build an economic model suited to raise their standard of living.

One such initiative is the youth entrepreneurship programme targeting teenagers to young adults. As the 1st seedling stages and beyond the young adult stage, expect new investors to invest via debt to equity to further push this developing initiative, sustainable to rebuild social communities in value.

The asset relocation value of building the transference of investment into communities and the youths encourages a pioneer outlook that they can see themselves as commodities worth more than their current status as the immovable forces of tomorrow.

As exposure towards new ideals and the way of the engineered world promises these futures to be exciting and purposeful.

The deliberate chaos actions of the old perplexed the confused youth into one way absorbing their talent of new, never hoping in a million years that constructive order of behavioral thought makes the difference between the conformists or reformists to the statute of good governance.

The people remain bewildered and shut on many reasons of sustainable impulses but neglect to appraise their possible reach to its attention.

As the measurement of success are recorded on the state impulses to have short term contract labor movements, to cover their term of office and removing the possibility to engage the youth carcauses, who remain brain freeze near brain dead on why their community is branded as a terrorists society.

Systematic errors are difficult to align as the citizens continually rely on misinformation about their social responsibility and possibility to change their urban setting into one of valuable commodity worth in sustainable generational wealth.

FALLEN SKIES

Mauled by everyday solutions to a history of problems all intertwined together to seem it is an easy task to accomplish is surely the unwisest who tests the faith of difficult tasks.

As the challenges presently unmasked itself to embroil the fanatics who seek present dangers and enormous death defying tasks as a reason to live life over the edge of sanity.

For the boredom socially economic distressed societies face is the continual misunderstanding of their education on the streets.

Street life encouraged the societies to become a tainted memory of yesterday once an act of chaos is performed.

A current attrition towards those who are loyal to the state responsibility to prepare the youth to a long sustainable life in the eyes of the public and to their communities to grow.

If anything good comes out of a society grouping of fanatics to overthrow the constitution memorandum of each citizen's responsibility to do well amongst your fellow statehood, is surely an insult to the corrupt society, which is a doomsday clock ready to act in sedition.

As the court society is filled with miscreants citizens all fighting for a right to be represented for actions deemed unimportant to be tried and convicted.

Actions only done by the wielding poverty stems from their household. To then act accordingly to their distress situation as they prepare to counter sue the government for creating their own horror story to commit chaos.

Blaming all other entities other than their free will to become a member of good standing in society.

For the falling society dominates all headlines as its citizens find ways away from their government sponsored legislation to survive on their own.

Even taking down a few institutions, families, communities or identities to fill their appetite of resentment of themselves and the so-called entity to put them in their positions.

A strapped cash resource development state limits their spending on protection rights litigations that it is not their fault that the sky is falling.

As the developing community faces many asteroid hits just to keep their economy going while the chaotic youths find illusive ways to not recognize what the country may be facing and only act on their current outlook within their own space.

For corrupted statehood actions on impulses fuels the flame of bigotry and semantic teachings which further creates ethnic driven compulsion towards blaming all grouping for their current dilemma.

A fragile society you may call it reader, as these happenance only exist in states ripped out of their identity and are replaced by a continued welfare state program justifying why their elected members should allocate free money for them without labor output.

A disguised phenomenon affecting the eager driven throughput for the youth to develop societies fitting to encourage re investing in the region.

A mental collapse breakdown of chaos resides in the hold of the minds of societies all looking to raid a financial institution in order to live day by day.

Propelled by this happenance of globalization and diversion is the only attack mode relatable to keep the youth disfigured about who they should emulate and monitor to be mentored for the future awaits them.

For the distinction between self and state development is so confused when chaos erupts the sanity of a developing state.

To keep abreast of the economic tides constantly as the pegged instrument of their dollar value constantly flows cyclical and such appointed societies ignore the temptations, to erupt the people in disarray regardless of the little incentive they get over the drop in state economy caused by their ineptitude.

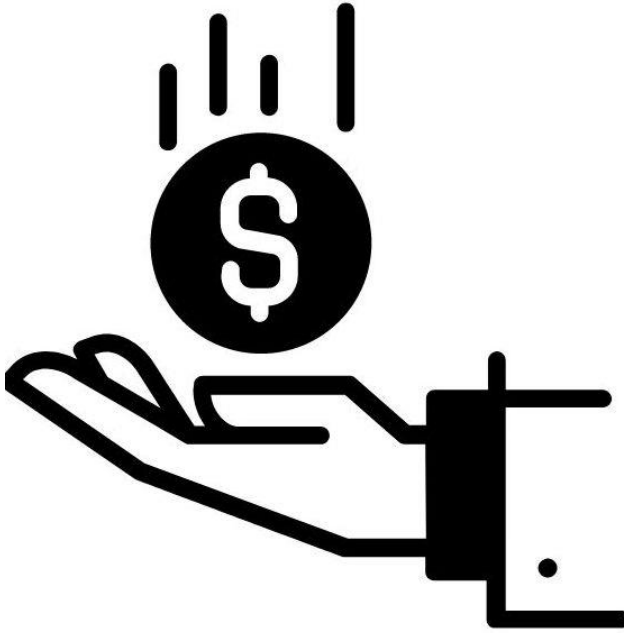

Fallen economic skies fall from economic storms, tsunamis, spill offs or flooded markets. The life stories it presents itself, should allow the labor force to be aware of the simplest mistakes a society can make.

The trickle down effects alternate the trajectory of the youths' vision to become productive members of their society.

Which further allows them at an early stage of their developing steps to grab hold of the responsibility adults hold in order to feel invigorated, to continue their dreams of becoming something more than just a village trades tool.

Old meets new grounded social theory in the rights of the youth to not fall victims to the ills of the society or neither the ills of mental retardation of non productivity and entrepreneurship.

The science of a sustainable life is to venture into new landslides of business, through long hours and failures to grow, the earlier at ages the better; so the works of tomorrow are indefinite and a surety to understand many fallen skills effects.

MONEY MANIPULATION

Habitual use of a state currency within societies and amongst the opportunity cost factor ranges with many business core selling opportunities and their duty, to provide services to the general public is an important alternative away from a monopoly government succeeding its venture into business franchise creating greater competition on the market place.

No matter how money is manipulated to fuel an economy; the society purchasing magnate suits these spending possibilities and their essential users.

But the trigger towards indecisive spending power comes with many developing states possessing many actors who practice the power to manipulate the consumers of choice in decisions that do not assist their current situations.

For economics surrounds everything, everywhere and somewhere; there exists an exchange of goods. The decisive decisions circulates a multitudes of appreciated stakeholders trapped in determining if every dollar spent equates in improving their youth survival rate with their household.

As each household prepares their youths into the new dynasty of labor force, to be meaningful in their power to money and what assets are resourceful to retain and to dispose quickly.

But these realities of words written on paper are not the case in the realities faced by households. As households face the economical blunt of the financial gaps between the choices they make earlier in their life to be resourceful but the exchange is too little to earn a living.

As population growth declines or inclines in territories and the fight for all to have sustainable employment, meaningful to be an asset in the coming economies of growth becomes a difficult decision to conquer.

Money attributes all support different actors of society in many different ways. It is not to say it was designed for all to know its usage to build an independent economy for self, family, society and country.

But merely an attitude change in knowing the true value of the currency and how one can generationally prepare for the new youth development minds to use such funds trusted for them to build new economies.

Knowledgeable in these product maximization goods that this is far from the reality. Another possible attempt to separate state dependent mindset and to push for a better self sustainable mindset built on the cosmopolitan idea of reserve hoarding to begin new business.

That is where social economies survive; is the mind of the investor seeking their fortune to grow in the hands of the ancestors' future bloodline.

But many have a way that it colludes other manipulated thought to surface and to use to fill the egotistic failure of filling the financial gaps caused by an unprepared social network of families to build a social intra-economy fortune.

That perplex a social network of families to fight for the one resource strapped central bank holdings, further illusion by mentors of deception holding power reigns; all serving the clenches of the political reigns; all serving their own failures by spreading mass hysteria about foreign invaders entering the financial markets to destabilize the working mass of society.

These calculated gestures invade the possibility to create a better fertile future for the youths who are at most times victims to the failures of leaders' demise to blame everyone but the "I".

A problem all too often sighted in developing states as the youth react viciously against their own peers due to the inactivity to teach them financial wealth attributes so they can become better independent shareholders in their adult journey.

And away from the doubtful behaviors of the seasoned leaders of society who create a worsening situation for the public good through combative conditions against each other.

A race of divisions and class xenophobia ideology pegged against the society economic stance to be a more resilient economy away from handouts and high interests rate loans to service the inequality of the masses caused by the very same masses.

A cycle of mayhem affecting youth development and their meaningful contribution to defer from traditional logic and to enter a realm of sustainability to increase their longevity within desperate societies.

The people need freedom, readers! Freedom away from socialism drowning capitalism! Freedom to be better resourceful in society! Freedom to be independent and a pioneer who rebuild their depressed community.

All answers lie within these many faces of the youth, innocence at heart and dreamers at will.

In summary to this topic; many as an essential instrument used in the most productive way, will seek appreciated levels of trust from those who benefited from it.

Those who can do much more to develop their independent economy more so than a state official power to wield disturbances in the society to benefit a cause other than the youths.

As their only hope is to create entrepreneurship as young as they can be so creativity remains fresh in their power to achieve greatness.

TOPIC END

A descriptive narrative about the essence of the purposeful youth in their beliefs to become something more than just a product of state interventions.

The topics outline a cause to be concerned about youth development in entrepreneurship and whether it can be the only alternative to remove a stagnant society away from proliferation.

Meaning that the will of the people seek methods to improve their lives and livelihood in a desperate depressed community.

The mass of the political reigns can only do so much but the social youth class can do much more for their innovative minds to have more years in development, surpassing the political terms of state officials.

Described within are the 6 topics which only highlight the purposeful idea of how far a little investment into youth entrepreneurship can go.
