PREFACE

I wrote this eBook in great reflection to all nation states written constitution and its reverence it hold to the independent republic of both the state and statehood of a country.

Its dereliction and intention is to represent the independence of its sovereignty amongst its peers and as a solace reminder of its attrition inheritance through time immemorial.

Written in these topic themes is another identified inheritance, which all nation states carry through time immemorial. The weight of the economic value of its citizen's workforce: vision, creativity, loyalty, patriotism and its allegiances to be that economic brand which will exemplify the nation of a written constitution.

Written in lest, the casualty the working force have placed onto a nation state to be that welfare body, that big brother buddy as the only viable means to evade greater independence of economic value contribution to a state; is indeed the bellies within the beast syndrome called them citizens workforce.

It identify that a nations constitution verily did not attest to valuing a nations workforce as economic priceless capital, built to build the economy of a nation.

Instead, they allow welfare-socialism-capitalism to reign supreme under conditions that they will live and survive; succeeding all harsh realities in a nation state psychosis entropy and enjoy the fruitfulness of this calamity inheritance plagued continually amongst the civilized literate workforce today.

Written for the millennia in mind it is the intent to embrace creative dimensions and remove singularist assimilations, birthing from the beast and allow the bellies of the new entrepreneurs to rise out of welfarism and join the new frontier of the 5th industrial revolution.

INTRODUCTION

This eBook examines the term coined economic constitution which derives from the unequal equation set by a nations constitutional guiding principles of the relationship between the state and the statehood citizens, employed to function as a nations reverence authority doctrine and the relation to the economic constitution.

An economic constitution term coined in reverence to the statehood citizens physical contributions towards developing the economical growth of a nation state.

It therefore attaches economic value to the citizens and thus that value is shared through an exchange of monetary allocation by the offering of; time, personal resources and states market capital injections to raise a standard value member of the social marketplace to be that market exchange brand.

When a citizens workforce in tandem through societal learning utilize their creative endeavors to practice their craft and skills in opposition to the social economical network of operations, it superimpose a reflective implosion from within, creating an imbalance within the equilibrium ecosystem.

Thus, forcing the response of the state through their guiding principles to confront these opposites on merit by their written constitution further creates a pro-cyclical force; imploding the other elements who find adoptive ways to be valuable to an economy.

Some nation states that do not possess the economic vitality to prevent the opposite elements, are forced to utilize welfare distribution to the citizens on theatre of socialism, triumphed by local working class champions and evangelists forcing the hands of the state through the means of the guiding principles of the land to persecute and be the rival mob to statesmen and women.

Creating a continual new breed of self sabotaging under productive, unutilized literate workforce; not destined to transform the economy as valuable assets in improving the standard of ascension within their present market economy.

The economic constitution identifies these practices in six topics outlined in this eBook. As the new millennia are striving to be the new hungry aspirant entrepreneurs removing all attestation from clone sourcing, clone donor and clone scourging businesses, which are rampant in an uneconomical economy.

As corporate slave trading interrupts flowdarity emanating out of the citizenry workforce to interrupt the local economy from the starvation employment strategies; to be the new rivals in hostile takeovers and mergers to improve the inheritance of economic enslavement and economic handicap passed by generational inequality.

WELFARISM ENSLAVEMENT

Categorization of the modern workforce is not difficult to measure as the observance of the mobility of the workforce against the systems allocation of resources, to maximize their outputs and to initiate a self assurance to use what is available to innovate.

The systems is not compelled to give the entirety of resources to one sector, as its distribution maybe unequal, as optimism are the grave deceiver of potential public workers, who may be looked as a drained resources investment not worth continuing.

If the workforce can categorize themselves into elements of over productive, under productive or unutilized, then the fabric of welfarism further creeps inwards without exiting.

While neither of the categorized elements bore any fruits of succession even if their monotonous motion of social equity holders produces little throughput results at the end of a workday.

To each worker their economical value to the state and to their employer depends on how resourceful can they be continually without burnout or depletion.

The 21st century tools of innovation further propel the elemental categories to find their place within the working world; the age of the brand sourcing and brand efficiency is rising to great boiling point that workers are becoming stranded within their own resources, as it becomes non productive or useless due to their captivated enslaved mentality towards the category others including themselves, placed on them as the necessary tool to survive against the backdrop of the state depleted resources to keep thousands or even millions job stable.

Systems pegged on a shaking system of marching fluctuations of economies going bankrupt, insolvent or dying out of the competitive race; producing more unemployment which is now pegged on the social dollar system.

Trapped in a delusion of enslavement and welfarism dependency of not trusting any state or business entity, as they themselves, fail to prepare for economic downturn in the territory and the work winners are the losers in the end.

Surviving within a weak social economic ecosystem is the mere words ecosystem- a system designed for all participants to harmonize their talents socially by distributing each resource for all to benefit.

Social community ecosystems works different from corporate and state responsibility to incorporate ecosystem of functionality benefitting either the state, state apparatus, state officials, state business chambers or the stateless worker.

A relativism that many categorized eliminated worker fail to admonish to rebirth themselves into the worker category of being brand material to any economic transition affecting the economic territory.

The demand of modern survivability has grown to a new economic warfare on all fronts; with the worker being the most vulnerable.

On seeing this, the welfare enslavement worker place themselves in can be a fault on their own accord, as up tide to total sell side only enrages the benefactors of this head game.

Even if the state appoints state bodies to entrust committees for improvements of the worker class, the committed embodiment of hope and dream emanating out of the workforce must be reachable as many have dwell amongst the welfarism syndrome, only draining its capitalization use as a means to remain systematic, depends to either falling into the under productive, overly monotonous and brand deficient productive or being an unvalued unutilized worker.

Which all are not great contributors to the value place economically on each workforce, monies spent by the state to create efficient, valuable commodities ready to be productive growth sprouts in the workplace.

A delusion between the state strategy of what the incremental value to protest and the protestants themselves emanating out of the belly of the beast; called them citizens workforce, who forcibly re-categorized themselves to be more dependent to the state welfare programs rather than onto themselves, to be the economic drivers for a better A class economy.

TOPIC 2

SOCIALISM

CAPITALISM

The term exemplifies the wholeness of a socially equitable workforce, together are mightier than the state willingness to classify them in degrees of merit and job suitability for economic growth.

The term described, resonates socialism as the important element towards societal changes, from being a stateless workforce to being state involved participants to glory days.

In the context to behavioral stimulants, its usage is always to demonize capital equity which is plausible and possible once the agenda personificate their intentions to build a nation ground up.

Socialism has been rooted enough to societal destruction of the working class, to adopt an admonishment to good working ethics practices, only necessary for the ceremonial marches and allegiances to power play actors.

Its recognition to grow capital social equity of its workforce is needed ever more in a world where the resource builders and hoarders, are no longer obligated to share their wealth externally and due to this old age development, socialism has rooted the cause to encourage these development by chastising downturn uneconomical workforce plurality towards state economical dream to develop state growth over personal growth.

The capitalist agenda is the only unified theme who can forward a socialist people to move into the direction of wealth building and sourcing.

A quite difficult task remains the annexing to Marxism, liberalism and right wing industrialism; inculcates to the literate workforce a sense of betrayal from high earning institutions, who propagate an illusion of high return growth in every investment within a community state.

The fight for position in the world's game theory applications are tireless and gruesome, as some major players have become economic sanctuary to defeatism and wounds so unhealed that memories alone creates damages to their temporal ambitions to reenter the economic warpath.

Smaller economies stand a great chance to enter as their populist-socialist-capitalist agendas are unique and evolved, learning from the mistakes of the former and developing new technological and materialistic tools to aid their results instantaneously enough to warrant changes quickly once gaps are seen.

That's the reality a socialist dominant allegiance actor should enforce to their sectors. The unions of the old industrial guards quintessential enough discourages harmony between the new age capitalists and the old age reformists; reforming any system new enough to outweigh their propagandas.

While both regard themselves as patriot to their causes the destruction it devour every time, dissonance occurs and the distance it creates amongst the willingness of the workforce to participate in acts not fruitful to the growth curve of their own personal growth embodiedment.

Suicidal actions demonize social institutions and social actors involved in preventing these occurrences, the burning desire of the socialist movement to continue their network within the 21st century would only end in causality to the productive human capital.

Additionally to the investors who play an important part in ensuring stability in the local sector continues so all participants are equally rewarded in the partnership towards systematic growth.

The ideological construct of believing that metamorphing within a capitalist agenda along with the old guard mentality, is productive and necessary to keep guard for any member betrayal from the state, is not conducive to be warrant as the only option.

Hence total destruction of old theme necessary to incorporate capitalists outlook would not sabotage the willingness and openness of its workforce, as trust is imperative to move forward but a key instrument in showcasing to all an sundries, that the working class can recognize the importance of the state growth and cannot function well without personal growth of its workers.

The social group falls in line to capitalist agendas, a unification which should not be disdain as frugal but one which can benefit the local economy going forward.

TOPIC 3

THE CATASTROPHIC OLD REPUBLICS

Workforce cannibalism aligned with an old republic regime of creating a degenerated workforce stemmed by governments administration tactics, to keep the voting population in a realm of delusion is a tactics worth addressing to the new societal epoch.

The world globalization strategies created new systems of the old, the world's new nations found their true destiny when their resources capitalize with their workforce brought productivity in the world market economy.

How that resource is found and maintain is the jurisdiction of administrative governments' structure to utilize enough to create an economy to sustain.

However the birthing crisis of the historical underpinning of societal indulgences, to look upon their esteemed leaders in the free world as martyrs and discourage their free will to monitor the actions of state officials allows repression of destinies which haven't yet been in existence.

The constant suffocation to themselves to ignore their republic birthplace to voice an opinion against systematic starvation, of finding innovative ways to improve their economic microcosm, feels indifferent when those same workforce devour themselves to fight for junk assts, just to improve their egotistic valuation of commodities; eating away the little assets which is scattered for the under privileged.

A systematic reasoning to keep sustenance and strategic positioning to the ideal of preservation and worth is chaotic enough, that the free world economy is destined that inter-bodies focus growth wealth by feeding the impoverished little to an average maintenance, without addressing the real causes of the canal behaviors of the cannibalistic social working class.

While their future hangs on a unbalance dichotomy of rationale, its purpose is to cloud the society in thinking that average success is good enough, as their society prides on the stories of failures rather than success and blame the sectoral society who emanated out of derision to improve oneself eco-systematically are the faults of present and future societal economical demises.

Frugal attempt to identify the inequality, inseparable and uneconomical resources the social working class has attain by allowing these prejudices to take precedent over their freedom to be creative continually to grow generational wealth.

Survivalism equals totalitarianism, when two equal rights for all is not shown, indefinitely to source good resources amongst the indifferent.

For all suffers the wrath of injustices and starvation of their will power to be creative in times of desperate means.

Challenging a birthed degenerated systematic regime of political economies and its unequal distribution of wealth, encourages that populist statistics runs the order of the day when election adores the puppets and the theatres.

Significantly enough, the populist regime today still suffers the days of being an uneconomical workforce not contributing to the welfare of the state economy; neither their own which propels a society into victory with a marketplace which shows no mercy for the weak but adorns the powerful will of systematic upgrowth.

It gets more intense when a historical cultural lineage of disparity and indifference of many types of occupied ethnicity and background are the populist, who fight for the resources of the state because no other resources can build the societal state due to lack of innovation deriving out of the workforce.

As internal strife and ethnic workforce occurs to fight for political power, to enter the arena of leadership, to scourge the pillars which build the nation and let the founding fathers initiatives be discontinued, due to empathetic sociopathic indifferences between ethnic statehood and creating a stateless class of workforce in the name of a gap in their historical accounts.

Fulfilled with a destiny, a devotion, a purpose; citizens workforce would rather create destruction for many while interpreting their actions as good to the few, just in name of deleveraging economical radicalism and forecasting intense propensity in the sake of the old republic regime.

TOPIC 4

THE MILLENNIA WORKFORCE

A system obligation to provide careers for the working masses coupled with the private entity contributions in finding the gap the government have created, in introducing jobs which are total resemblances to the old, comes very favorable among the new millennia.

The new millennia want more; to be productive, to be resourceful, to be creators to their new found career craft and not be stymied and stuffed by both party and organizational politics in relation to working habits.

The freedom to be a brand source and a scientist, developing new product line and business unit, to compete with their local counterparts or international territories.

A striking workforce of determination can change a systematic old regime as the geo-politics through time has been ruptured often enough to not chastise and belittled the workforce determination for change.

A change which few have utilized, as many remain enslaved within the corporate dynamics of job particulars and its procedural matrix, qualifying the worker into categories of competition to enter new market territories, which not all department and divisions are equal in creating.

The first product of millennia qualifications endowed the workforce early mindset; that this alternative is the only necessary product to achieve, to be the loyal citizen product one can be proud of.

Without opening the essential doors for creativity and reputation to be build under a different duress of sweat and blood only the strong will endure and conquer.

This is the new journey of the entrepreneur in abandoning the fabric of the society, created for the intrapreneurs to produce and reproduce products of imagination, as the community is spread thin in regards to changing their conscript of living indefinitely.

The unearthing of the disbelief taught to the ambitious achiever, that thoughtology manifesting out of the creative craft, is one not all will be welcomed and the original adoption of the use of better talent should be more utilized amongst those entities already in existence.

The troubling social ethics behind the old regimic thoughts are its total discomfort to the age of information and the truth behind success is reasonably said to be the starting point found within the believer of their craft.

Investment-instrument towards the continuation of a rigorous motion of continuity propels validity, that the original craft is indeed one to be genuinely benefittal for the survival of the market economy.

As economies continue to be devoured due to new crafts, it gives hope to the believer that success is remit enough to dispel old propaganda and geo-social issues playing societal indulgences of hypocritical condemnation, to those who possess the will power to fight their present existence of being corporate slave and a societal tool for other person success.

All aforementioned behaviors coming out of the bellies of institutional thoughtological literatures feeding in the minds of the new learner, that the possibility of success begins with learning the ideas of scripts not efficiently to survive the realities of the changing globalized markets.

The belly of the beast lies within confidence and imagination formed to manifest its existence, once the millennia is hungry enough to eat at their competition and those who dispel their actions as one shot glory of hyper-illusionistic sensation of societal prejudices grandeur.

Hopeful enough to not be taken seriously; the initiators of many all hungry to be revolute, ensures that this period of time is not hoaxed as a rebellious citizenry Corp abandoning social-economic thought hoarded on by generational degenerates and unpolished lost idealists.

The new millennia want more as their hunger grows rapidly enough that old regimic republics cannot stop or prevent their uproar. These new capitalists idealist see through their pillar of their demise and hopeful to combat all detractors and propaganda that are armed with no more than their teeth.

Their willingness for greater career growth coming from their craft only and not be subjugated with low income monetary rewards for enslaving, for both private and public oligopolies and money monarchs.

TOPIC 5

CLONE

SOURCING

Cloning has always been a trait nation states and individual citizens' statehood are excellent in performing. A skill best suited when there is a decreased in resources or there is a lack of innovation birthing out of its dissension.

Invariably, both ascension practices are not the sequence strategy a state should adopt in regards to a country economic growth.

As the 21st century shown an increase in clone scourging and sourcing of business systems all over the world. Creating a huge dependency in economic production and profitability.

While the lesser economic states continually fall victim to the ascension of this vulgar practice, it remains futile but essential to their own harboring structure. As their economic minds of the statehood lacks the ecosystem to create anew.

Developers and systematic institutions fail to reward innovation in the working class. For their only power lies in their performing essential work continually, as it is seen as their productivity counts for potential growth regardless if this structure is not terminal.

A cancer eating away the fabric of a society pronunciation of habits veered to be the loyalists to a cause and to them personally a habit of no concern, as time passes into infinity and the working class are made redundant in practice.

Job sourcing for the clone business structure economically prevents further productivity in the stateless economies. The corporate contract between workers and the enforcers to mass produce limits, sold marketable in territories wanting the similarity it provides and neither the culture enslaved to manifest it.

A symbiotic relationship between clone sourcing, corporate slave structure and a state foreign positioning, to be redundant in the world economy.

For titles and badges dedicated to a community upgrowth and a relentless citizen state to fail, on the importance of rebuilding a destructive culture of workers; historically meets unions to a position to create separatists-monarchists themes against state position to create in reformatted sourcing.

An unskilled population of workers who are not utilized enough can inhabit betrayals of cloning, as nothing is never wide to hold onto, to build a generation of wealthy citizens.

The dangers of clone crowd sourcing or clone business unit operations, franchises the workforce to enter into trading relations to entities wanting partners to work on conditions not productive enough to warrant control measures when there are shock to the market economy.

Elated when clone sourcing works at its early stage the citizens workforce instead of building their capital to further their economic ambition by pool sourcing resources, to become more attractive to the new emerging market, they intend to create, they instead unionized their uneconomical equivalents into spending spree illusionistic endeavors, spending capital against the trading market, which possess no value but slow gratification which are instantaneous today and requires penalty measures tomorrow.

A continuation of these practices prevents generated wealth of the working class and inhabitants traits of dependency towards the birthing race of the clone business and their investors, to a state wanting handouts and charity from countless societies.

For the ideas of building require a century old blueprint, learning from the detractors and the founding fathers and analyzing which market to enter and those to evade.

For not all dominance traits can be essential in all economic designs. What is remiss about these happenances are it is never too late to rebuild but their constant cultural structure prevents them from doing so because it becomes innate within them to be surely satisfied with little than to build organically.

Unless a new donor comes and reclaim vitality by exercising power and dominion over the workforce, with poor money management structures and lesser in demand spending power from the uneconomical distribution of wealth not attain to them.

The history and its effects of clone sourcing and clone donor are relentless and bore no fruit towards the sanctioned or committal states and communities falling into a contract to be the corporate slave traders and slave drivers towards the colonized economy.

By entering adaptation traits striking deep within the bellies of the beast, shows how important an economy is to its workforce.

Poised by nature or poisoned by nurture, clone sourcing is a habitual business trait for early adopters who are too unproductive to create new revenue streams outside the realm of what the driver stream habituates, which is already over populated.

Conducting these practices encourages a workplace to delve into new territories, which possess similar outlook as being in the former territory.

Best business practices are too difficult to ignite and the populace shuts down their effort entirely in the sake of a perceived notion, that their efforts can best be rewarded by staying within their space and conducting business; regardless if it is: time, money, resources or capabilities in entities already in place to devour all creativity and sanctioned-revolution-ambitional-goals.

TOPIC 6

THE ECONOMIC COMPASS

The future of a workforce is always in the hearts and minds of its citizens and their dependent, which may be regarded as martyrs to their inefficient birthplace.

The citizenry workforce must adore all possibilities of upgrowth and nurturing away from systematic control programs and handouts, gifted in aid to their social delinquency; the corroborators who furnish the neediest brands to only quench the moment of economic thirsts.

The mantra of not forgiving their captures is the policy going forward as diffusion and relentless power should prove different in the times of millennia upsprings.

For too long justification to aligned manipulation propel the dissonance that life as a substantial figure is good enough for some but not all are subscribers to their belief.

A hard policy to swallow from continental disparity and uneconomical inequality coming from the citizens, who believe that justice, is on their side and penalties should not be incarcerated to them but their captors, in this economic war of attrition.

The world has seen too many uneconomical workforce play victim to their causes rather build their body to be fighters against population decentralization and optimism for a new direction and pathways.

The hope is just a figurement not attained by sitting on the buy side, streaming all resources to satisfy the ignorance of citizenry populace and the small gratification to remain sane, rather than to propel the excellence, by trusting the inner belief core and to thrust into a new frontier framework of diligence and good industrial practice until the aches become the greater reality of themselves rather to any nations protagonists ideals.

The ideological matters have swayed total attention to a destructive direction for years; that has taken a combined effort of charlatans and clergymen to preach a doctrine which is so farfetched, the unbelievers become believers.

To replace the uneconomical worker into an employable value commodity wealth exchange talent for buying powers.

Also noticeable are the achievers attention to unqualified ideals mimicking old industrial regime complex, bringing forward hysterical accounts to justify indebtedness and inept qualities wanted and desired today.

A socialist-regimic authority dispelling the earned corporate literates and hegemonic body they possess, that they are the causes of present catastrophic corporate and social slave trading.

Policy franchise holder to these fabrics of ideals selling in the local workforce marketplace at cheap commodity price, sold at a comfortable price margin, inexpensive and dangerous ideals, which would further optimize on capitalism-communism and welfare capitalism.

A time where the industrial pinnacle of survival can only be evolved once the world populist understand their economical value to the local and foreign economies of their outer states.

As if the early settlers was forced to survival in territories known to be economically poor, forcing them to subdue to the pressure of international financial bodies and slave distributive tactics just to survive.

The independence of a nation came on the accord of globalization deliverance to begin anew a financial territorial system so all entities can benefit at some juncture of their trading category.

All coupled with identity sabotaging and societal conflicts on past occurrences it affects the growth of future frontierism.

While the bellies of tomorrows' workforce, will surely be filled with empty promises, as national capital debt increases because inactivity resulting out of the beastly citizens.

Miseducation on financial incongruity and sterile citizens depopulated to mean separation from idealist-conformist can save reputational offspring from pitching their own compass and fearing no one who leads the path to their destruction.

An abridge thought worth seeking as no entity rather the death penalty by forcing a whole nation state workplace into a pit of damnation and economic starvation but instead, carry a few into the religious state of being cleansed from the classical stricken and the social re-engineering problem they created.

A nation which stands on the probabilistic reasoning and misdirection of how an economy should rise out of their depressive state are considered to be contributors to the economic cancerous symptoms of the old industrial republics.

TOPIC END

Known to all nation states; the history behind the bellies within the beast. The citizens workforce own demise of generational causation of their economic standpoint by allowing and creating their furtherance of being a poor product towards vitality.

Economic growth continues to be under the strain of the state as the literate workforce today still find elusive ways to construct creativity to encourage welfarism from the institutions which provides them.

A solace attempt which will cause the end of innovation and creativity for the further development of the human race.

"The human evolution depends on the new millennia workforce in ensuring all inheritance of the old never cross the bridge to the new frontier."
