PREFACE

A business warrior guide in insurmountable to all successes in an ambition individual in reach of something greater.

The misconception to this is that it sounds superficial that all would be given to you without a fight to keep it.

All are enemies of each other, fighting with and amongst themselves to evolve their condition into one superior than the other.

Victims fall short of these realities and face early damnation spelt out by detractors who continually beat their chest on their victor less attempts.

While the victors neither explain their victory and how it was attained.

But the reflection of their achievements was brutal and gruesome, with marks and bruises hidden from the media and the hopefuls, in fear of accusations of both mental and physical abuse.

To deliver messages to investors of their instability that may occur.

A frugal attempt to be on guard as all success is not appreciated.

Reflect on the hunt and the pain it encourages to become the hunter in your tribe, conquering most beasts than any one before.

This eBook reflects greatly on aspects of the hunt and the immortal beasts that lurk in the shadow of wilderness, aimed at delivery for those not prepared for the corporate wilderness arenas.

So follow the hunters guide and success shall follow you entirely, as this eBook examines key essential to overcoming victimological- psychosis -traumas of failures.

Empathetically: “it is not intended to be the omnipotent of knowledge but a digression of deduced reasoning to the recipient.”

INTRODUCTION

Say it enough to believe it, say it enough to become it!

The hunt is real and there exist no season to do what must be done.

To first become the person you desired to be. Just doing the imagine part of dreaming is not sufficient to acquire hunting skills to hunt in the wilderness.

For competitions are numerous and dangerously excited to meet weaker opponents to enjoy their hunt.

Corporate victims sometimes never say what occurred but creates an interpretation that they will resurrect into a new form of species.

Whether how true that may be, there exist other types of knowledge necessary to function acute to the surroundings of the corporate mantle.

As requiring the status of legends means becoming something you are not.

For the functions of innovation and creative business model is to set a footprint against giants. To make a home in the archives of achievements to benefit all intended for its rewards and resources.

Hunt or be hunted elaborates 6 topic themes on behaviors required to understand the hunt. As all hunt are different for all.

Assuming that you the reader have never apprised yourself on topics like these is just the reason it is written.

Novice, amateur or seasoned hunter this basic concept will set you to a part of understanding the importance of being a skilled warrior in this lethal game of the hungry.

Read the concepts and conceptualize yourself in the position you are in now and hope to be the corporate warrior you dreamt to be.

LEGENDS OF TOMORROW

Do we have to continue an ancient line of business practices predestine to be immortal in itself?

Mortal privileges bestowed its immortality as principles which have to take the shape of its destiny in all forms of generational economies.

Economies which holds true to practices which have worked well in their establishment thus far.

The mortality rate of legendary business practices handed down from one generation of people to another produces fewer success rate, if misunderstanding occurs between mentors and mentees.

The sword shall soon be winged against principles of adoptive traits aborted long ago, as inefficient to the cause it represents as the flow of innovative economies show differences in how it is manifested onto new customers.

As customers have always placed themselves to be the controllers of customization product margins and the phantom of mystery these corporations faced when operational expenses are not return of profit on the end user.

The immoral sensible atrocity to do is to demand a greater psychological profile on customers' needs and to determine their buying power and privileges to continue the birth rate of success.

As continuation line of succession contributes to a lineage of duality and reliability to the controllers of needs.

As the producers of wants are legendary decision makers, understanding the depths of purchasing power and the infliction it takes to the spending capacity aligned with the classes of the workers.

The dream state in immorality is not born in business but acquire through in-depth research on the market and the determination in possessing all its shares entirely for generations upon generations.

A feat not quite worthy for those who only seeks the mortal forgiveness of quitting early in their quest to dominate business sectors.

The dragon warrior in their feat to dominate the inner self in protecting their body for business wars ahead and state conquest to ensure viability to political reign over its subdued citizens; that all are well.

Creating panic economic trends are not the necessities which are needed if doubt has captured a space in the minds to not become immortal.

Your brand itself must be legendary and fruitful to demand respect over all others.

To survive long enough to see many fluctuations of the market through up and down markets flow and be secured enough to withstand economic shocks.

A deal made between corporate heritage and the founders of business which can be connected to a state economy, as seen in many economic commonwealth states.

Their dependence is so connected that they rely heavily on the immense and wisdom of these corporate immortals, to keep their spirit alive in the company long enough for the state economy can be sturdy to withstand intermediate hegemony.

A twisted plot of faith all entities play unnoticed by many actors and agents that mortality is not enough to survive the immortal world of corporations.

A struggling corporation is destined to fail and others are proven to be resilient against failures.

The corporate culture must possess the management which must have the spirit of the dragon, the warrior; which cannot be affected by the tyranny of others but to see avenues where exploitation is open for forward opportunities.

The marching men of corporate seal, jacket and briefcase, the err sense of dismal death lingering in the halls of offices and corridors.

As warriors before you have bleed tirelessly to ensure productivity remains akin to success and the urges to fail today is a disgrace to those who fought for its survival yesterday.

A remembrance that the legends are true and the archives have confined their existence as new entrepreneurs are hired to do their part in creating a new breed of immortals.

Invincible creatures that are aim stacked and determined in producing only viable products which would captivate market dominancy.

And the rules played are for the committed warriors who want to become the legends of the artistry.

An art only the few have attained from their lineage or through many exercises to prove their loyalty to corporation.

By spreading the stories of corporate histories and those who would have done their part before and are immortals in the book of corporate life.

THE DEMIGODS RULES

It represents merits to those who seek out their innovation for a purpose other than themselves and ensuring this purpose reaches infinity; a point of complete indestructible mode.

For its purpose cannot be succumbed by others not worthy to carry the torch of its existence. To want to live forever in the new economies out of the old.

To allow this existence power to be the ideal product created to bring out the essence of purity, integrity, sensibility, humanly and purpose.

It's the rules of the demigods; to protect innovative business from being destroyed to early in the game, as such it is difficult to see its true potential due to inactive agents desire to not fight for it immensely.

Rules are necessary to obey, to align the structures of ideals and control over set characteristics which has the power to abstain from its core ideals.

It is the idea behind good success routes taken by few who understand the power of rules over matter.

Material matter which can ostracize productivity quickly in dissension when surrounded by agents who are diminishing creatures of the dark.

The title explains no more than what it represents, to understand that material wealth creation is not a fallacy taught in business schools, easy to acquire with one thought.

As ideas can be conjured out of the creation and swiftly taken by agents of sourcing, willing to cheaply pay you for an unedited version of creativity, for early investment growth.

Here it requires you the recipient to develop these rules of survivability as the following are examinable and deducing in nature:

The demigods rule 22:

1. Know your craft well enough that its reflex actions multiplies success quickly.
2. Understand the potential and risks entering an industry early on by researching the intended market and its competitions.

3. Circle yourself with enough gratification and hope that your efforts are not unseen so continue it until you have exhausted all its existence.
4. Trust no one you meet; do your assessment on personal entities as well as organizations capacities by shining a light on the necessary (due diligence outlook).
5. Alienate yourself from families and friends who serve no purpose in your development. Keep all your thoughts positive and forward without allowing these thoughts to exit amongst prying idles.
6. Be the most intelligent person in any room and share what you know can assist the audience but keep guard some information that are the golden literature to your success.
7. Do not be lazy in your craft and its building capabilities, especially when it is where the money is.
8. Do not be hesitant to learn and adopt new concepts and knowledge to your existing library.
9. Find mentors you can trust and those who have the track record in your intended market field.

10. Whatever your dreams are and if they present themselves to you multiple of times, then it is your destiny to carry it out.

11. Charisma is the human trait to fit in. However avoid the fit in fraternizing as much as possible.

12. Keep your mental frame peak at all times as the gate keepers and the obstructionists keep you on watch always.

13. Stay true to your business decisions and follow it until it is exhausted.

14. Create a 100 year corporate model so the principle set by you can be multiplied in many generations and areas in the business sector.

15. Change as much as you can with your wealth, let the world know about your accomplishment in this period of transition.

16. Survival is key; protect your interests guardedly.

17. Protect your insanity and emotions when failure erupts the process and get rid of investors or stakeholders who are stumbling blocks to great ingenuity and product creation.

18. The world must evolve and only you can do your part. So do it!

19. Align your part to your destiny early on in life as the rewards are quickly disseminated early on rather than later on with regrets.

20. There exists no rule about management styles. So be you!

21. Do not be afraid about fighting legendary demigods in business; it improves your novice behavior every time it is condoned.

22. Stay alive long enough to do as much as you can do, this rule can apply to you on your corporate departure.

THE FIGHTING SPIRIT

Breaking an economic cycle of poverty and generational under productivity is the goal one must achieve indefinitely.

There is no honor in defeat and it requires the strength of a powerlitic force burning inwards the recipient to achieve potentially lethal results over all competitions.

The hunger must be everlasting and your wishes to be more than just a normal working class, trying to make it through every problem faced each day, is not the type of appetite one who hunts should feast on.

You would want to feast on big predators and monsters, where your success rate is unfavorable and doubtful.

However your anticipation to face larger and most aggressive opponents, allows adaptation and skills to be quickly adopted by force manifestation.

Do manipulate the spirit to fight, for not all preys are preys and not all opportunities; for golden traps are laid out around the vulnerable to capture how desperate you want the hunt.

Exercise your options in business; know your strategy in the wild and manipulate it quickly so the vicious cycle of predators do not see weakness in you.

This is said in context to remind those who are aware and those who are the misfortunes in business; regardless of the regulative industries, policies, committees, standing orders, legislative frameworks and its officers; the wild overtakes you in the wilderness; for this is what to expect in business.

Friends, families, partners and associates; seek their own hunt amongst the general hunt of the team.

When the hunt becomes difficult and sacrifices are needed to limit the causes of deduction to life survivability, one is sacrifice going on continuously until it is completed.

Do not be the first victim of sacrifice for your team.

Teamwork is preparation for good and bad opportunities which meet them during their hunt.

As a team those preparations should not dismay any lone attempts of some to think individually and selfishly only on their lone attempt to do it without the team.

It is not intended that those circumstances do not show itself amongst business fluidity but it is necessary to feel the sentiments early on as a possibility during your hunt.

And it will emanate itself and when it occurs, you must rest assure that you were aware of its coming and the wilderness shall not take you as the next victim.

The spirit of the hunt is to endure its ecosystem and through fluid movements slowly; acknowledging this is occurring now and existing strategies must take effect gradually, while recuperating enough energy to endure the harshness of the situations.

Spelt out are intricate phenomena which are determined to test the mantle of the business you co- created or created.

Remembering the distance you spirited to achieve the possibility of growth in the corporate world is the spirit which should continually be bighted internally.

Its passage to its existence dwells on a personal level of human traits devising plans to end the living entity of a creative model.

The behaviors not reprehensive to be a lie totally undiscovered early, is just the human business to business relation not intended early on.

But prices do vary so is the price for total domination.

In a specimen of corporate wars and its affiliates, all want to achieve greatness, regardless the cost to many.

The fighting spirit encourages you to not be the victim but the hunter.

To understand their blueprint and to build your resilient empire amidst the rocky economy of others.

Stand firm your decision to continually fight; for others will ask you why continue.

But remember your talent capabilities and what it can do for you amongst what you do not do with it.

The end result of every decision you make today depends solely on where you come from and the position to elevate yourself, from both a mental and physical enslaved positioned chosen by your peers, families or associates; which at the end of this topic is to say to distant yourself for the hunt is real and the hunger must be everlasting or else you would turn into food for the hungry corporate wolves.

Show no mercy!

Hunter 2

THE ORDER OF CHAOS

Creating new economies in chaotic times is the quintessential point of being hungry throughout every hunting season.

For not all season bait would be easily accessible, sometimes you and your team of experts will hope to develop systematic traps, which are engaging to the bait of a economy, to be lured to such investments.

Investments which would seem to be harsh for many but instructional for some, who needs these investments to build their portfolios large enough to fulfill their appetite for growth.

Seeing this is a thin silver lining between the order of an economy and the chaos it avoids. However a hunt should not always be based on the good bullish economy of the market but the realities of shocks created by the impunity of the nationalists' regimes.

Causes created by frameworks and national pride of developing crushed economies in preparation of a chaos created by them to lure pacifists investors to believe with a stroke of luck can purify the stakeholders of dying economies.

Chaos knows no boundaries and hunting for cheap products and commodities on sale when every business unit are hoarding and protecting their interests and investments are the direct route this topic alludes to.

Divestments into the wilderness of harsh conditions benefit the strongly held positioned person and their influences by the creation of new economies in times of chaos.

Myths or not, literature description of ancient purpose of citizens cities plagued by robotic maneuverability of citizens soldiers all programmed to be uniformed in code and behaviors, controlling mass economy of scale.

Purposefully selling products through market signaling and hoping responses will raise the value of its sale and at the end, those continual teaching of autonomy autocratic deliverances of ensuring that a state invested structure remain fluid to divest in, is surely a manifestation of scientific intelligence of product signaling.

But the escape away from economic order into the chaos of economies is a triumph one shall enter to test the mantle of signal calling.

It is not intended to rule out the risks in seeing new economies as a gold standard to wealth but if hunting is your style of survival and the economics of old, which are scaled against you, simultaneously it is on you, this new innovations is what keeps an economy going.

New economies need to be scaled during times of crises, affecting social economies or national in itself.

As connectors due to compromises set forth by allegiances to balance a territorial comfort of supply and demand resources, structural to improve regional sets of money flows and transfers down to the economy of scale is also the danger zone to chaotic times of market dilution.

Set up in multiple sectors, the globalized world is a series of inter-structural zoning of economies that financial sectors are predetermine to balance off larger economies, just to keep fixation going continually.

It is prudent to believe that the inevitable causes of fiscal downturn and money supply fluidity, is not the causality of larger economies dumping junk structural systems on the smaller states stake on their balancing act to levy legislative criterions to keep their dollar market afloat.

A drowning market of chaos all over purify the order of things, to say remitting that order cannot last forever and such a system must be in place to survive during chaos.

The hunt towards new larger cities and states economies or innovations sets the principles far off to be touched singularly one points at all time.

Be ahead of the global economies is what is being mentioned here. Both national and social level develops the tools necessary to balance your equitable stake in the economy you represent and sustain as a form of living.

The order of chaos is devising sufficient plans to survive throughout a chaos economy and preparation is vital to protect assets class, which you hold dare enough to further your financial wealth generation.

As markets are never the predictor of order to only survive with wealth accumulated during order is a foolish tale most populated diverse personal economies engage in historically.

So draft out your personal persecutes, long enough to cover multiple of time periods going forward.

With all your attempts and deadlines in accomplishing tasks which are benefittal to the target market volatility, whether through order or chaos.

It is intended for you and by you to protect your investments and interests generationally.

As chaos is not your enemy but an opportunity to create a new economy for yourself and for your intended recovering prospectus.

THE RESURRECTING HAND

Emerging from defeat is the mostly exhilarating moment one can ever endowed themselves to be the most realest moment in their life.

A reality other than their existing reality of falsehood theories, logics, anthems and loyalist appreciative affections.

As the creation of old talents are buried away from the body, which arise on new likings of skilled ready and renewed to take over from their defeat.

The resurrection in any situation is gifted phenomena one should not regret to occur.

It regenerates the meaning of living and the powers you may have in possession that was channeled to the right areas necessary for a comeback.

Regardless if it was not harnessed before the defeat is countless; arguments none is helpful but the feat remains about the reality of the blows awaken the inspired being to resurrect from the ashes.

The hand which makes the talent to operate is efficiency to dominate the sector, to create new economic order and to be dominant in their approach of continuity is essentially what that particular body parts functions on.

The merit of creativity is the factor of growth; without it the more essence of survivability is diminished slowly but surely.

Avoidance to those unprecedented times is to be the mocking example of luminaries and corporate scholars.

Who are the present realities of past successes into the future? Creators of possibilities which are endless and pointless to the uninitiated masses, whom frequently find themselves motionless during times of mobility.

Neither were they taught about resurrection and maybe its avoidance, if good enough to be immortal in tactics.

But its neutrality is forever a purpose of the realities of the corporate world. As defeatism is the only language relatable to the investors' investments and the critiques.

The fear of losing so much with so little effort is not to be overtaken by the greed for intolerance.

An intolerant miscreant creator surrounded with other insolvent minded investors, creates a dampening future, no one would like at the end.

Their tolerance for it reeks with captured slavery of the innovation, where resurrection of the entity is neither good for investors as it can be said it is more profitable dead than alive.

A dying breed of corporate warriors living and breeding the life of solvent state enterprises with hard accomplishments and positive feats to be the champion in their league.

As all are more championed to be careful with their investments and life in general.

To tip the line and stay focus in the safe zone away from potential dangers and risks which can overwhelm your mind, body and spirit.

Worse yet, if endowed with religious extremism to deny an opportunity to free yourself from economic slavery, by just accepting the hunt and entering into the wilderness to sharpen your skills and in every attempt to widen your vision about life in general.

Every expert in their dominion is fuelled with their own biases about success and how much you should indulge in.

But the end product to all life's purpose and spokesperson is you the recipient. The one who is most afflicted and affected by all those safe zone topics, which none are any helpful than the other.

Thus, if risky behaviors which produce mass results of success are the only solution of resurrection, then it shall be the only method far away from living it too safe.

As its abundance surely points to its viability and reliability to be further studied by the students of success.

For the student of and for failures, it says a lot about their character development and personal ambitions against their abilities to create change in the economic cycle of life's resurrection system.

As personal resurrection occurs so to can your business. It is closely connected to both entities, that formulating greater synergies, improves the concept of living for a purpose.

It is a continual flow of wins and losses for all wins and no losses, exemplifies that you still have not conquered an overly developed fear of buy- in a position of loss.

And the templates necessary to overcome a history of losses to wins. As these positions creates a greater hunger for hunting that the winners poised position of becoming too relaxed with their hunt, surprising being a victim of the most hungriest hunter in the room, over killing projects until no return.

Be wary of these events!

THE BLEEDING ACT

The accumulation of wealth and its distributions surely are the principles of guilt bestowed onto the hungry owing to their kill.

Their primary objective is to dominate their market until another business opponent can arise from the depth of defeat, aligned with other syndicate or a new business economy trying to fit in as early as possible to join all target market spread.

The action undertaken by the framers of will, to forge allegiances with their enemies in the name of monetary controls, to gain advantage over the many to disappoint their further unions, just for the cash flow to bleed out enormously without steeping in the balance of accumulation and distribution.

Whether distribution is in regard to deceit or indulgences the spirited heart of the corporate; reiteration heavily on the many past injustice the power of will overpower the body to show no mercy to their competitions or their stakeholders.

If jobs are loss or families are broken all in the name of power and control, is a reality which will not turn over and be submitted to all types of truces.

The bleeding heart of rejoice and contentment are just the feelings of remorse, equity holders indulge in practice and live with a faith of superiority.

Neither is it looked upon to be good nor bad intentions, it is the will of business and the power it yields to the ones brave enough to search for it.

The color of red hot distribution unstopped and targeted, penetrative and purposeful is the signs of the market exploding in positive numbers and their accumulation of an increase in the market curve, astounding to tell to everyone who never bled for a cause.

As industrious labor immensely through and forwards rough for some are the reasons the balancing are sourced.

Having accomplished the sector intended and the purpose to survive is now tested by the weak who now dominates a taking of your troubles.

Asking for little troubles is enough to assist the agent due to believing that their troubles are too much to handle and sharing is caring.

How idle these conversations have been occurring these years to give back to a society, who desperately needs your affection as the balancing circle, encircles around desperation against determination.

For both are misaligned to mean the strongest shall take care financially to the instruments of the weak. Force multiplies the inclination that it is okay to be economically poor, so once the economically rich shall shower them with portion of their divinity to full their appetite, little by little.

An apology set in principles which further created a welfarism attitude and a generational of working class who would not be the ones to further evolve the human race.

This is said to explain that being uneconomical can be a sin towards further development of the human race going forward.

As the bleeding act concludes the conversation of the challenges of money flows, as opportunities of the hunt, rather go out on the plain of wilderness to get their feed on and shall not return until a captured hunt is trapped or feared dead, to bring to the camp to feed its intended partners, who have interests in growth as much as the hunter.

These stimulations are the duty of the working class, regardless if you are a corporate client partner or owner.

All shall fall prey to the hunt, for it is a rewarding system which without it, will fall demise on system growth.

Regardless if some patriots consider preventing to think otherwise, for if it bleeds it is easily defeated.

As what is the deter factor to anyone success and its keep backs, set backs or track backs.

All terminology one would bless themselves as factors which are holier than their self, so be an act some divinity warning them of the potential journey ahead.

Setting excuses to not move forward should not be exemplified in context of spiritual divinity but in the context of failure to personally act.

Too much business is bleeding out due to the new economic stance of giving and not accepting something in return.

As give backs are returns to the investments of alluding the next generation an opportunity to also partake in evolving the world into a new one.

Not to be the recipient of short term handouts and fail to see the bigger picture ahead of their present situations.

The hunt can overtake an unskilled set of agents who are unprepared for its run. Do exercise caution when entering uncertain and untrained. As their exist monsters who are hungrier than you and will do all to make you the victim of tomorrow economic tidal wave.

TOPIC END

The hunter guide examines topic on the hunt for success and the real environment which is not conducive for you, as it is designed to take more victims than triumphs.

On seeing these tiresome issues; addressed in this eBook finalizes the behaviors one shall emanate to survive the wilderness, as future success can only be found in these parts.

No other destination would require true grit and grind to succeed in life. Any other copy of the wilderness is a position the weak shall undertake and results in no achieving the status of a business legend the tomorrow mentees need.

"Hunt or be hunted, this is the true way to becoming the corporate warrior."
