PREFACE

A personal call to all people of industries, that globalization is not the enemy of your progress but instead is the only enhancer towards mankind's further development.

As the writer to this prolific understanding that the will of the working class is a powerful force which can reconstitute an old industry into a new one.

The force of a combined set of unipolar principles destined only for one ultimatum “to survive continually within their originality in check.”

The ideal factor here is this eBook, outlines some perplexing issues which must be addressed in order to propel further away, from being the most productive and essential asset in development and to hold poverty status while doing what you love.

There exists this reality that must be understood as many nation states encourage certain behavior in order to address the many social economics issues plaguing their workforce.

This is written for the success stories of old and to the new ones being written every moment as employees of the working class decide to level up their skills to match this growing economy of innovation and originality.

INTRODUCTION

Blue collar workers continue to be the true source of productivity within every growing economy.

Their talented skill set once manifested in good proportions to develop not only the corporate financial liquidity on their market but bring the best out of the workers ambitions to be part of something greater.

However nothing in life is certain and true to a concept of thought.

As it still reside amongst every industry the unlimited underproductive and over productive people of work.

These three categories are further examined in 6 topic themes in this eBook.

Which showed a much stringent approach on identifying the reasons behind poverty of the working class.

Causes and issues emanating out of decision makers and policy framers who may seek other interests other than the true reliance of ensuring them a corporate workforce remains reliant in today's industrial era.

As it affects many communities when dependency from state apparatus further creates a delinquent attribute to be more productive than themselves; encouraging low income payment as a substitute for being unutilized and underproductive.

For there exist no economies of scale in the working environment, as displacement takes over the will of many potential people of industries to demand more out of their contributions, as taxpayers and voters to the elitism phenomena encircled around those who are willing to abuse the financial system for the sake of their indulgence.

A personal contribution described to all readers intention to absorb a little more thought in understanding the complexities between being an industrial worker and its connection to being poor.

SUSTAINABLE EMPLOYMENT

The people have spoken! But to what extent do these spoken words amount to in today sustainability outreach?

The people are in defiant to change in becoming more efficient that they believe they can achieve.

Wholesale bargaining in negotiations of labor exchange like it is a trade exhibitions on which brand are more appealing to the consumer of public spending.

A consume philosophy that the agent of the labor force is not in direct contradiction if chosen to not be efficient in an efficient labor movement.

A movement of people all destined to fall and to remain in poverty; their dying will of forgotten talent wasting on a belief that if not provided now with the capital then the skills would remain hidden.

This old concept of the bourgeoisie and the proletariat commerce now economies of trauma on the difference in economic scale each party is alluding to.

Unbecoming that these tales of workforce and its trauma are not exercisable today in the world of excess resources, which can compliment any talented workforce in need of economic changes.

The challenge is the sustainability behind it, the risks encouraged to it and the stressors to its unearthed wealth accumulation.

Either their position of being an entrepreneur or intrapreneur, all must conclude to the position which do carry weight that each other is crucial to remain a viable product in the commodity market.

A truly fierce demise as talent succeeds talent quickly, that its pattern is immeasurable and immense to keep the employment of people constantly engaged.

Without it the utility of the growing stages of development wither and die into the graveyard like so many periods throughout economic listeners.

Dissertation on the fabric of sustainable employment comes with it a talent pool of personalized body of people under study, maximizing every ounce of energy to mass produce efficiency at low cost, minimum time and with less energy consumption.

The man, the machine and the materials to make whole the engine block of life and consumable, must be energy efficient and done in quick succession, to not deviate on what the real purpose is behind betting on the equivalents of time.

The purpose of doing and taking action and displacing people of old industrial action takers into the destiny hands of new millennia's and laboratory geniuses, determining the future of the labor force in an experimenting chamber of many hypothetical solutions driven by the madness of some to drain resources of fertility, in order of creating alternative source to welcome a body of depleting outcomes.

To the people; if not scientifically measured to produce the efficient load of work intended by their contributions naturally would produce an imbalance measured outcome of work.

And an imbalance measure outcome of work would further propel industrialization, to collapse and create other economical strain in an economy, and hopeful a government institution take charge to welcome welfarism as a parting tool to be sensitive to under productivity and their duty of statehood deals a better hand.

In surmising to a mob of angry protestors demanding intervention by state to quell their financial bleak outcomes, than encourage a fishing expedition, to be better citizens in controlling their own economic future by using resources to improve their employment outcomes.

Difficult decisions must be made to deliver a birth race of labor, sustainable employment which can drive economies into the bold.

A black hole effect today can destroy pessimistic analysts on comfortable notions of the human race reaching their limitations and the circular distribution of wealth is improbable and inoperable.

Tricks to old traits these thoughts have not penetrated all social economic space but a few, as many today has utilized may built platforms to keep them far away from their birth rite of being poor and unequal to new rival.

Accepting faith and delusional grandeur that being poor is a blame in disguise and it prevents the heart from feeling that sense of apprehended beat and being fearful of competition for this can attest to encourage a beastly attitude, never to return on the other side of faint.

A sense of disbelief that environment conditions still evades the possibility that poverty is a mental attitude which can be overturned by any individuals in search of it.

As people of industries are ever changing and welcoming to those investors who too wants to be part of these revolutions of opportunities.

Being poor is a exercise of the industrial people giving up on reasoning and fluidity to the game of evolution.

A continued pattern in the industrial landscape of talent, all destined to be obsolete.

DIVISION OF LABOR SCHEME

There exist a multitude of registered companies operating in the world.

As thousand are being enacted into the state entity as a functional machine so too some are being buried, transferred, liquidated or abandon every day.

The scope into the future of business is not scientific but apologetic when citizens' workforce feels the blunt of the incorporated groups of societal companies, forced out of commission and their dependency is further interrupted as the day goes by.

A truly horrific event some has experienced and others would soon be the next victim, just counting their time leading up to it.

Even so, hundreds pass by their office leads and submit resignations every day.

A very unique labor partnership between the opportunist and the pessimistic of business relations.

This is a scheme brought by the purpose to evolve and all stakeholders are indifferent in some achievements while others are different in all other factors leading up to an entity survival rate being interrupted.

The labor shortages are real and commitment by organization to keep staffs on rotational basis heavily depends on the fluidity of the business cash reserves.

To be the exchanger of goods and services without falling on its kneel on being a bad debtor to repayments and a worst business partner to important entities who are closely tied to the business units.

The important commodity voiced and potential to overcome economic difficulties, to apprehend a poised stance for better equality and treatment for being the control exchanger to the movement of essentials are the human capital.

A slight mistreatment on the part of employers would tip the balance scale and create introspections in a business regardless the economic class position in the market.

An uncontrolled social economist seeking deliverance at a job, forcing their way to be the best version of themselves on route to becoming a senior partner, is all the socialist ever needed to become whole.

An unbecoming truth some attest to separating other ambitioned workforce talent to be either in the game of dethronement or out onto the streets begging for handouts.

A tough environment of numbers and Russian roulette not all are strong to participate.

Created by the makers of purposeful involvement in character assassination, in order of sacrificing the queen in order to reach the knights chamber of success.

The monkey bars and hoops reaching onto another as you push your way onto another bar, qualifies you to be an endorser to pain and intense punishments all in the name of the team.

Stereotype in small groups and large associations defer entry to subclass and underdogs who play their games like their life never intended it to be fair challenges, for a fair day's wage.

As anthropologists use clinical ways to study human behaviors, as people of industries entitled so to be called in this rat race to be the best alternative to being poor.

Beating innovation of yesterday to be the inquisitor of tomorrow!

For the clock passes the controller of the hands as it ticks away the old and forces the new to adjust as it too becomes a memory.

For time passes the injurious vengeance held by industries being the victim to takeovers and its workforce being the product of birthing new debts they have no control over.

As desperate times encourages desperate innovation to do tasks not worthy to be mentioned, but its little intake financially are welcomed to feed the mind and body from being socially depressed due to outcomes never controlled by the recipients.

As the steps to poverty as an industrial worker is to be assimilated to raw data feeding the behaviors of consumers by corporations that financial equality is for everyone.

Why deny comfort now when you have the economic fortitude which is never ending.

Truly a behavior which accounts for many demise of families which fall victims to financial illiteracy and consumer manipulation.

Falling off the stable production map to become the new statistics of labor shortages, meaning unemployed.

Fall onto a state welfare package to keep you alive enough until your mundane skills may be of use never again in the future.

As people of industries would continue to be the victim to mass economic shifts, liquidity shocks or to government policies abused by its weak laws and gaps abused by corporate armies.

MIGRATION EQUALS DISPLACEMENT

Across boundaries and endless opportunities fulfills any applicant to find other means of employment, where the economics may seem benefittal to them; also the hope to be citizens within this displaced community of economic migration.

The body of industrial workers if not though polices allow globalization to bear fruit along the path of trade agreements and soft investor policies would always find a journey to encourage favorite conditions as a human being.

If not through these means, they spend millions of dollars in invested schemes to encourage foreign corporations to do business; thus spreading both financial talents as a importation of resources suitable for internal growth.

The world has gone global and open for every nation state has within a unique plot to stabilize their national interests once their appetite to capitalist regime remains optimistic year over year.

But some do seek interest elsewhere, to go beyond the scope of internal investment by seeking a bargaining labor initiative to participate in some other nation economic stability.

The root cause of displacement of people in industries is the forced product of living costs attached as a stain, where ever they seek immigration status as an industrial worker.

The migration of overseas talent overseers of work commits to similarity throughout the ages of globalization.

To no end does it state that labor still remain forced, however someone current living conditions can force them to either commit to a low standard of living by exchanging labor for sources of money inland or outer lands.

No matter their position, both unqualified and qualified fall victim to rationalizing product of equality and their equal resources in need.

The money flows and are betting on the highly competent industrial worker who finds tactful ways to increase productivity at the lowest cost but to the extent of their mental and nutritional value.

The exploited conditions remits plurality in a neutral, observed, respected community of work today.

Migration inland or out of other territories, through the movement of people trying to find the best alternative other than starvation are all a splinter in a very big wheel , caught in the spin and trying to hold on to their edges of what the economic directorate has given them as a source of survival.

To decide on remittances or to abandon the whole entire family due to their strain on your pocket; the decision each make as it furthers your growth or not in this time deficient period to do much with little offered.

Or to join the line of a lottery system determining legitimacy and also a measured form of controlling the limited slot open to migrate talent to the talent deficient population of others.

Legitimacy through talent augmentation and hoarding to better the best economies and to the lost state, still recognizing on their deficiency to keep bay nationalism and loyalist to birth state rite.

The world is no longer singular and has been so since the beginning of money flows. For no state holds claim to a migration of people going through the location value chain, observing cultures and governance and finding suitable a spot to call home.

A genuine cosmos of humans continued survival till this date.

A today state wields the financial institutions to assist in creating a better suitable life for their nation.

As hurried decisions on best pay back measures and diplomacy suitability, on merits of the choice in utilizing the funds and a committee in supervising the correct use of its allocation.

Monitoring systems capability index and funding ratios is not belittlement, when all can be lost if future indexes are not improved by today investment in economic stable business warrant to capture foreign interests to divest in.

A system of open collusion and economic war between nation states to adopt best working alternatives to those who seek it more than others.

The thrill seekers and adventurers rather lose everything and start over, than remaining uneconomically poorer than their already poor displacement to still remain until innovation kicks in to displace upwards rather than downwards.

New cultures, policies, financial stability and the strength the economy holds is just the beginning, when dealing with the biggest factor of social economics and social stability in the distant adopted community.

For people of industries commits to a lot of demeaning situations just to be the bigger person in the war against systematic poverty.

The will to be a little stable overseas are determined by the factor which present itself when economic displacement are open for a challenge.

At the end of these trials: someone, state, community, family and culture would have to be displaced in order to reap the merits of another.

WAGE BILL DILEMMA

Wage bill is an access to a comfortable living, so the system framers of employment cannot abuse their position to constrict talent, molding it to mass produce without the proper exchange of financial commitments.

We are aware of the history yesterday and those that are upon us. The forces of globalization needs product exchange quickly within minimum time and a control worker population committed to the one goal.

Its mass allocation of an abused system of operation signifies how far an employed system is willing to go in search of controlling their market economy. Whether downsizing or displacement of asset; stakeholders of material resources in order to fulfill their objective.

The people becomes carcasses in this whole development rotting away on the only salvation premise there is to become a whole human being in a act of dignity.

A suffice mechanism to feed the ego continually on those who are easily misguided about what it takes to be an economic value to a community of workers.

Wage bills, wage acts and any other legislative frameworks disguise itself as agents of equality but are truly the despair doom factor of personal insolvency.

An act forcibly trying to be fruitful and negotiable to the real life dramas faced by other economic shocks affecting community of industrials.

The people of those industries become known for their disparity, characteristics, demeanor and temperament of bonding as one rather than fighting an unequal system on their own.

But is this system unequal and unjustifiable to have a wage control bill and or act representing the majority of blue collar workers?

The fantasy is only in the theory of economies as the increase of world population grows so too their appetite to be free from social economic slavery.

A tipping point towards anarchism and socialist agenda ideology set in principle and cast in stone about people of these industries.

The rhetoric here examines the responsibility of the collection of people to be sincere upstanding citizens, committed to further develop themselves in a competitive world of work.

For every life for a life, every breath for a breath and every dollar for a dime.

Each have to be subjected to a higher power all connectors to an ecosystem of value.

But there exist no value in a central system other than ensuring that the free will of those unable to catch flight onto the dream of success, shall be dignified to accept state involved assistance that shall lead you to at least a path towards the ticket gateway.

Not a dependency syndrome catch on a generation pill each community is addicted to and prevalent to the economics of rule.

Systems are falling and the sector which runs its operation are too confused to even bother to re-enact structural guidance, to allow industries to mold better workers into tomorrow work rather than over exercise their better judgment to exploit their handicrafts.

The system is a balancing act all needs the will of other to sustain the other; no matter which other positionary tactics may be; it runs only on time and the innovation of its workforce.

Without it, it dies internally causing internal bleeding in the heart and minds of citizens' workforce all irate on becoming victims to state quarantined wage rather than looking onto it as savior.

Pronunciation is the key element for today's millennia workforce misaligned teachings on sustainability employment.

As the evolving world capitulates on share will to create an economic fallout within their province, demanding better working relationship between state officials commemorating dignitaries of official functions, mayors, state governors, senators and government leaders of nation states to act as people do, feel their frustration and aid in their plight for better wage act and bills representing today shortages of resources.

And the abuse of unionized bodies to massacre public opinion about good governance, forcing the will of the people of industries to react to all policies not financially profitable to their exact needs.

An encircled oblivious dominant structure, where all leaders of public perception are caught in the web of authoritative deception, to fuel their companies of delivering true service to their voter working population.

A voter working population consisting of many working class and subsets, all trying daily to keep up with the current standard of living and the purpose to live.

The politics of the people so appointed to lead and direct, controlled by the government of its citizens but yet iterate that the government is the people; are surely philosophical concepts of rule which neither satisfy its true intentions.

As unwavering support towards economic suitability is a dream for most and an allowance for some, as commodity drives customers to permanent consumers mode drive, on the sustenance to keep repeating daily actions to feed their appetite to survive, as the holders of committees find illusive ways to control spending and to allocate funds to keep the wage act intact so not to disturb the mob; asleep in destitute.

THE UNTOUCHABLES

An everyday assertion that the wealthy and super rich created a form of inequality to the majority poor to be generational; so much in context that their delivery of service can be replaceable indefinitely.

A truly satisfying fable story each person of inequality speaks of during their transverse, commutes, conjure and medium amongst each other.

A story which seems to be so powerful, that it truly is immortal against those who have utilized their skill set from being birth poor to being super rich.

So what is the concept of repetition everywhere you go?

Is it the behaviors of the stigmatized to adopt a philosophical concept of their inability to achieve greatness and to criticize those who can?

Or is it the inferior complex syndrome of being a simple individual trying to get by while others find the means to multiply their earnings?

All these questions lead nowhere but a hateful ideological concept of life.

As hate and all other instruments connected to those concepts of thoughts are constantly constructed by those who fail to understand their purpose in their ecosystem.

Thus forcing them into a pit of damnation with no return but a life full of resentment all on its accord of being too attentive on someone else journey.

All time are allocated to every workforce. At times economic situation would present itself difficult in every community but many similarities presents itself that those who think big, bigger than the usual big picture find ways independently to achieve this feeling by attaining these big dreams.

The feeling is what is sought after, to know that it was accomplished and the feeling of this triumph propels them to more attribute goals certain to be new accomplishment.

Their exist no merit to achieve independence away from a stricken poverty demise.

But hard work and being totally mundane towards tasks needed in the big picture.

It is never about you and how you think this should be but what achievement exists hidden in you, the worker that can propel existing problems into solutions.

That is the purpose of being untouchable, while continual untouchable acts are those that are continual in nature, purposeful in design and rewarding in time.

The poor argues for little given but much is already spent on their inability to remove their presence from their own demise.

The poor question too much on uncertainty and remove their essence of risks as comfort ability ensures their survival is not interrupted.

It is hard, it is dark, it is competitive and it is a dead end.

These are the roadway which leads to the unknown but as adventurers which were born to be, the unknown is where all the answers are to continued survivability of the human race.

There exists no rich and poor in the world of innovation and creativity but the economic philosophy societies displaced those conditions, to be birth rite and must be outlived by another family member until maybe, someone would remove these birth rite teachings and lead to a journey far away from community immunity to poverty.

As so many people of industries fight fire with fire and succumbs to the rhetoric of those who are intentional in the design to create a blueprint of what they believe your destiny should be.

A truly dishearten circumstance when your future is in the hands of those who have no interests in changing the outcomes of your economic situation.

But to treat you as a dependent of the poverty line as someone seeking short rewards and minute structuralism on the biggest venture the world have seen in this 21st century.

Opportunities to not be propel into being a miniscule figure of hopelessness but to utilize the past resources anyone can possess, to become a figure of statute and prominence amongst those who tried to deny you an opportunity.

The pathways are endless unless the bigotry teachings and the self hate syndrome are removed and replaced with finding where the money is and directing all attention into the skills necessary to lead the path.

For the thinkers of industries this would lead to other paths into creating new ventures of your own, thus following the pattern laid down before you by others.

Inequality of wealth distribution is certain always and only to those who encourages it to be so.

There is no one way road to wealth in today's abundance of opportunities.

So the questions now are: how bad do you want it?

How much do you want to prove others wrong?

How much do you want to prove yourself wrong?

And do you want to gain wealth in your industry and attain the entitlement of being the greatest and as such, have a laid out platform in your name to commemorate your fight against your improvised birth rite economic condition?

STATE ENTERPRISE & DEFICIT SPENDING

There continues to be a nexus between state, local or federal government employees and deficit spending by these same entities mentioned above.

State enterprises as a whole whether subsidiaries out of a government agency, regulated agency or an amalgamation between private and subcontractors relations, seems to be the largest employer in many regions around the world.

A truly succinct feeling of tribulation for the majority who are employees to these entities, who continue to boast about equal benefits and conditions, that may seem important to them, depending on their circumstances to be civil servants to the act of servitude.

All operational structures independent but yet dependent on the functions of the people, to be mindful of their duty as civil servants to the will of the people who are in need of efficient government services.

And to those who seek subcontracts from government agencies to re-develop old communities philosophy of the past, to make a better and brighter future for the ones affected by inner city violence, youth delinquency, domestic violence and all other disintegration of petty crimes circling their district of operations.

All those instruments are measurable to the issues plaguing society and if there can ever be a solution to solve problems created by society's voters.

The constant thousands of hours footage of news reels saying otherwise.

As the big cities cope with inefficient spending and a laudable taxation, as penalties for the luxury a city may have to offer to its residents, visitors or consumers of local goods.

For the civil worker, industries worker, domestic worker and servants of government sectors, all are dependent on the powers of the dollar absorption rate in the hands of the bankers, investors, financiers and brokers.

Their magic crystal ball deterministic power relations and co-existence dollar motion, syncs well to the theory of distribution but not an appetite, when the industrial workers finds it difficult to see how it can satisfy their style of living.

Hoping for the best lottery system pegged on numbers as their overly deterministic rationale to end their measurable poverty once and for all.

A system of its people for its people, stand alone in defeat in the public square when these deficit budget allocation goes nowhere but back into investor hands, to make the dollar work more efficient than in the hands of the consumer of the working class.

Spend, spend and spend! The dollar by choice, these insolvent people of difficult background, social class and educational metrics; to not know the different between a state that spends on social care, without demanding back sweat equity for it, to a state who at least constrict spending to the working class unless more taxation on every hour work is counted as an expenditure towards your community business and consumer growth.

A depletion of resources continues unabated and with no clear assumption to digest well with constituents, hoping for the best in a decline within the economy and its close connection to the workers and business of the state enterprises, is seen countless of times during economic crises.

With no clear affliction for better dialogue on the economics of globalization and its connectors of financial instruments, all holding their cards to their chest hoping for a clear deliverance on the tide of consumer dependency and algorithmic counting on the distribution of cash flow undisturbed; creates more illusion than all red suits are indeed a product of a red economy.

To analyze further the getaway theory of separating the financiers of commodity and the sweat equity of workers of industries, allowing a bridge instead to connect directly rather than none at all is the beginning of diluting responsibility from both actors of chaos.

This chaos of dependency and the state reluctance to disallow its continuation just to appease voters for another heated campaign election are all traits of welfarism.

The people want solution to carry for generations' not short term allowances and pensions-carries- with an ever shorter span of spending capital.

Carrying a hate of being classless and protesting is the only option to show the state that people of industries want more benefits, as interests on money earned so they can be recipients of building wealth on the backs of public taxation only.

A possibility that these lazy attempts by jurisdictional bodies promoting these behaviors, as of the state resources is the only resource known to build the wealth of civil servants and public servants, because they believe it is owed to them.

It is indeed a practice seen in most constituent government around the world.

As wealth building comes from the people will to manifest their innovation backed by financiers who seek the same economic future as the founder.

A battle between logistic supply of the movement resources and the people in the matrix, trying to control the source and commitment of delivery, is a default in the product and a continuation of those acts would never result in a stable economic system to the people who are in desperate needs of stability; the people of industries.

TOPIC END

A question which evades us always today is “are workers of tomorrow the recipients of the evils from their predecessors who are the actors of wasting time in the job market?”

A question which in full is examined within the context of this eBook.

An analytical thought behavior on some possibilities affecting the people of industries. As this real struggle cannot evade its nexus with society's poverty plague.

As the workforce is circular and straddles well on bumps of the economy rather than on peaceful tides. As these shocks ensure that the best workforce survives through tough times.
